GREECE EXPECTED IN 24 HOURS TO DECLARE HER DEFINITE POLICY

Inevitable Retreat of Serbs into Greece Believed Will Force Situation.

ODDS WITH THE ALLIES

Kussovo Plateau, Last Hope for Serbian Resistence, is Open to the Invaders.

Fall of the City of Monastir is Not Yet Confirmed.

London, Nov. 20. — The present military situation in Serbia, which appears to make a Serbian retreat into Greek territory almost inevitable, will, the belief is confidently expressed here, force Greece within twenty-four hours to abandon the ambiguous attitude which has been a cause of uneasiness both to the Triple Entente and the Central Powers, and declare some definite intelligible policy. Such a policy, even if it is adverse to the Entente Allies, will, at least, be welcomed here as an end to the torturing uncertainty of the past month.

Reports Favor Entente.

Some comfort is derived from the optimistic tone of dispatches from Athens, which, since the arrival of Denys Cochin,the French cabinet member, who went to Greece on a special mission, report that public opinion is running strongly for the Entente Allies. But, since it is a well known fact that King Constantine's choice waits upon the outcome of military events which at present would hardly prepossess him in favor of the Entente Allies, there is no real expectation in London that Greek assistance will be forthcoming.

It is already announced from German sources that the Greek government has informed the foreign diplomats that, in order to maintain neutrality, it will disarm and intern all Serbian troops which may retreat into Greek territory. It also is stated in German newspapers that Albanian troops are trying to bar the other road of retreat by concentrating on the Serbian border.

Kussovo Open to Invasion.

The Bulgarian successes at Katchanik to Tetovo and Babuna Pass have now been confirmed and the Kussovo Plateau, where the Serbians expected to make the last desperate resistance, is now apparently open to the invaders. The fall of Monastir has not been confirmed and, according to latest information, the Serbians are advancing thence to meet the Bulgarians, but endangered as it is from three different quarters—Babuna Pass, Brod and Kruzvo, there is slight possibility of its holding out in case the Bulgarians make a real attempt to take it.

The Austro-German armies are now on the borders of Novipazar and are approaching Prisina. Thus Old Serbia, as it existed before the last two Balkan wars, is completely overrun by hostile forces.

Serbs Near Montenegrin Border.

The Serbian armies, which have been for the better part of two months gradually falling back, are now reaching territory close to the Montenegrin border. Operating in the region west of the Kopanik Planina, the forces of Field Marshal von Mackensen are pressing on Novipazar, about 25 miles from the frontier. Twenty-five miles to the northwest of Navipazar the Austrian advance ha sreached Sienica, narrowing appreciably the line through which the Serbian retreat must be conducted. In the south the situation appears even more threatening to the Serbians.

The Austrian defenders of Gorizia apparently are being given little rest by General Cadorna's forces, the pounding of the Italian guns on the city's defenses being severe and virtually continuous, according to the reports from Rome and Vienna.

Artillery Operations in West.

In France and Belgium, mining and hand grenade operations and artillery exchanges are the only happenings mentioned in the official statements. Berlin tells of another bombardment of the Belgian coast by Allied warships.

Madrid dispatches tell of the narrow escape of the Italian liner Verona from a submarine while in the Mediterranean, presumably on her way back to New York. Pursued by the underwater craft she reported by wireless she finally managed to shake off the submarine in a fog.

BLOCKADE AGAINST GREECE.

Declared by Entente Powers, Say Athens Press Reports.

London, Nov. 21.—The Athens correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company sends the following:

"The Athens newspapers publish a communication issued by the British legation, stating that the Entente Powers have declared an economic and commercial blockade of Greece. The cabinet afterward sat from 9 o'clock in the evening until 3 in the morning."

Athens, via Paris, Nov. 20.—Earl Kitchener, British war secretary, arrived at Athens today. The earl and the British minister were received this afternoon by King Constantine.

VILLA RETREATING FROM HERMOSILLO

Losses to Carranza Forces are Said to be 1,000

DIEGUEZ IS IN PURSUIT

General Oregon Has Collected Forces and is Marching on Nogales Where He Expects to Check Villa's Retreat.

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 20.—The forces of General Francisco Villa are retreating from Hermosillo leaving 1,000 dead, wounded and captured, according to official Carranza reports. Villa forces of General Rodriguez have broken through the cordon placed around Cananea by General Obregon and are rushing to the assistance of Villa.

The retreating Villa forces are being pursued by General Dieguez, Carranza defender of the capital. Some of the retreating troops had reached as far north as Imuris by railroad and General Obregon has diverted his troops attacking Cananea to cut off the escape of Villa's men to Nogales.

General Dieguez, reporting to Obregon tonight, stated that a sortie from Hermosillo, after fighting the combined forces of Villa and Urbalejo at Alamito, 23 miles north of Hermosillo, drove the Villa troops northward, leaving 600 dead on the field, the Carranza loss being 14 officers and 150 men killed and wounded.

General Obregon reported from Delrio that General Rodriguez, with all his forces at Cananea, penetrated with 1,200 cavalry of Colonel Cardenas at Puertocitos, eight miles southwest of Cananea today, and took the road and forced Imuris, on the main line of the Southern Pacific to Hermosillo, up which Villa is being driven to Nogales.

General Obregon advised that he had collected all his forces and was already marching on Nogales, leaving a strong garrison in Cananea and had ordered Dieguez to pursue Villa's troops closely. General Obregon said that his own cavalry should reach Nogales by Monday morning and be in the way of General Villa before he reaches the border.

AMERICAN MAN AND GERMAN WOMAN REMANDED IN COURT

Woman in England Charged With Having False Passport.

London, Nov. 20.—Edward Hodgson, an American, and Lucy Wunsche, declared to be a German, both having American passports, were remanded in Bow Street court today, the latter being charged with failing to register as an alien, giving false information and being in possession of a false passport, and Hodgson with aiding and abetting her.

Hodgson, who is described as a mining engineer, has a passport issued in Washington on March 17, 1915. Lucy Wunche's passport was issued in Berlin on July 10. Both were revised in Amsterdam on October 28, the woman's being endorsed, "Accompanying husband to England."

WOULD HAVE ROOSEVELT AND JOHNSON LEAD PROGRESSIVES

Progressive Party Leaders of Missouri Hold Conference.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 20.—Progressive party leaders in Missouri favor entering the 1916 campaign with full national, state and county tickets, headed by Theodore Roosevelt and Hiram W. Johnson. That attitude was expressed in a resolution adopted by the party leaders after a conference here today.

The action at the conference followed the announcement of George W. Perkins, of New York, chairman of the National executive committee of the party, that he had called a meeting of the committee to be held in New York, November 29, for the purpose of arranging a meeting of the national committee at which a date and place for a national convention will be fixed.

BRYAN AT GREENVILLE, S. C., SPEAKS ON WAR IN EUROPE

Also Makes Short Talk at Banquet Served by Business Men.

Greenville, S. C., Nov. 20.—William Jennings Bryan, who spoke tonight upon the subject: "The European War and Its Lesson to Us," made a short talk at a banquet served to fifty prominent local men and at which he was the guest of honor in which he said that three great reforms were soon to sweep over America, prohibition, equal suffrage and peace.

"It is bound to come," said Mr. Bryan when he was laughed at by the crowd at the remark regarding suffrage, 'out it is bound to come, when the men of the South realize that all the crooks and those who make their living by crime are opposed to equal suffrage."

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—Reports received here early tonight stated that a sharp earthquake was felt at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon throughout the Imperial valley and other points in Southern California. No material damage had been reported.

GOMPERS AGAIN IS AT HEAD OF LABOR

Re-Elected President of Federation Last Night

TH[illegible] OPPOSING VOTES

[illegible]ion as to Advisability of Referendum Ballot Voted Down by Delegates—Annual Convention Comes to an End.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—Samuel Gompers was re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor at the concluding session of the annual convention here tonight. Of three dissenting votes, one was announced as that of Adolph Germer, a Socialist of Chicago, who asked that official record be made of his vote.

All the officers of the Federation were re-elected almost unanimously. Besides President Gompers there were:

James Duncan, Quincy, Mass., first vice president; James O'Connell, Washington, second vice president; D. A. Hayes, Philadelphia, third vice president; Joseph F. Valentine, Cincinnati, fourth vice president; John Alpine, Chicago, fifth vice president; H. B. Perham, St. Louis, sixth vice president; Frank Duffy, Indianapolis, seventh vice president; William Green, Indianapolis, eighth vice president; John B. Lennon, Bloomington, Ill., treasurer; Frank Morrison, Chicago, secretary.

Resolutions asking whether it would not be advisable that officers of the Federation be elected by a referendum vote and providing for the initiative, referendum and recall in transacting the affairs of the organization, were voted down today by the convention. J. M. Barnes, of Chicago, opposed the committee's report and said the Federation officers opposed the referendum because they would not feel so secure in their positions with the proposed system of voting.

Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation, replied that he could earn as much money in another line if he was not re-elected. He said if the initiative and referendum was to be adopted, the members must wait until the constituent organizations themselves put such rulings into effect.

The threatened breach brought about last night, by consideration of a resolution calling for the suspension of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners because of failure to refrain from allied encroachment upon the jurisdiction awarded the machinists, was looked upon today as merely an incident. The only reference to the debate of last night occurred when several members of the convention moved good-naturedly that the proceedings be printed in full.

Baltimore was selected for the next year's convention ofthe Federation.

Chicago, Nov. 20. — Mayor William H. Thompson, whose name was filed with the Nebraska secretary of state as candidate for Republican nomination for President, will ask that his name be withdrawn, he said tonight.

WILSON TO TALK WITH REPUBLICAN LEADERS

Will Go Over Preparedness Plans With Them.

Senator Gallinger and Representative Mann Invited to White House. —Latter Makes Statement Regarding Proposal.

Washington, Nov. 20.—President Wilson today asked Senator Gallinger and Representative Mann, Republican leaders of the Senate and House, respectively, to confer with him on legislation for National defense. The time of the conference will be arranged to suit the two leaders. The President sent the invitations in accordance with his announced plan of making the fight for military preparedness along non-partisan lines.

He expects that his plans will be opposed by some Democrats but has been assured by leaders that there is no doubt of passage of the main features. Just before the opening of Congress, the President will confer also with Republican members of the Senate and House military and naval committees. Representative Mann who was at the State Department asking for protection of American planters who have been driven out of Mexico, made a statement on the President's proposals.

"The President may give orders to the Democrats in Congress," said he, "but he certainly cannot call me to the White House to give orders. I am perfectly willing to consult with him but not to go up there and be told to do what he has decided upon. Everybody is for preparedness, of course, but I am not willing to say what attitude the Republicans in the House will take toward the administration's defense programme until I know just what it is from the documents, not from the newspapers. I am for all defense preparation that is necessary. I believe in treating such an issue as a non-partisan question."

Mr. Mann said he had heard that the President had written a letter to him but that he would not discuss it until after he had seen it.

CHANGE IN WHITE HOUSE FUNCTIONS

Diplomatic Reception Cancelled Because of the War.

TWO DINNERS INSTEAD

Series of Entertainments to Begin After President's Wedding When New "First Lady" Will Have Charge—Programme.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The programme of official entertainments at the White House, which will be resumed this winter after a lapse of a year, was announced tonight. The programme shows several changes from that of previous years, due mostly to the European war. The series of dinners and receptions will not begin until January 7, after the marriage of President Wilson to Mrs. Norman Galt, and the new mistress of the White House will take her place at all of them.

The principal changes in the programme this year will be the cancelling of the diplomatic reception and the substitution of two diplomatic dinners for the one usually held. This departure was decided on because of the impossibility of inviting diplomats representing the opposing nations engaged in the war to the same dinner.

J. J. Jusserand, the French ambassador, dean of the diplomatic corps, will head the list of guests at the dinner attended by representatives of the Allies, and Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, will be entitled to the seat of honor at the other dinner.

Selection Presents Problem.

The ambassadors and ministers representing neutral powers will be allotted between the two dinners. Just how the selections will be made has not been settled and is admittedly a perplexing problem, especially as regards those diplomats whose countries now are being urged to enter the war by both sides. These questions will be referred to the State Department by the White House. The first diplomatic dinner will be given January 21 and the second January 25.

The series of entertainments will be opened January 7 with a Pan-American reception in honor of delegates to the Pan-American scientific congress and diplomats representing Central and South American nations. They will follow the cabinet dinner, which will be attended by Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, the two diplomatic dinners, the judicial reception, a dinner to the Supreme Court, the congressional reception, a dinner to Speaker Clark, which will be attended by leaders of the Senate and House and several special guests, and finally the army and navy reception.

The dinners will be held in the state dining room at the White House which was completely repaired last summer.

London, Nov. 20.—The correspondent at Berne, Switzerland, of the Central News telegraphs: "Diplomats understand that an Italian declaration of war on Germany is only a matter of hours."

ADMIRAL FLETCHER IN DISPUTE WITH UMPIRE

Over Decision Rendered in the October War Games.

Takes Issue With Admiral Knight Who Said Disposition of Defenders Was Defective—Daniels Relishes Dispute.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Rear Admiral Fletcher, commander of the Atlantic fleet, which defended the coast in the October war games, has taken issue with the decision of Rear Admiral Knight, the umpire and commander of the attackers, who held there were defects in the disposition of the defenders. The attackers theoretically landed an expedition on the shores of Delaware Bay.

Secretary Daniels refused to discuss the dispute today further than to say he relished it and preferred a disagreement. The umpire ruled that the Blues scores failed to locate approaching transports and their convoy and that the defending fleet was surprised and torpedoed.

Secretary Daniels denied rumors that any change was contemplated in the command of the Atlantic fleet. He said that both Admiral Fletcher and Admiral Knight were valuable officers and would continue in their present posts. Reports submitted by both, stating their conflicting views as to the maneuvers, are being studied with unusual interest by the general staff, the war college and the bureau of operations.

Department officials made it clear that the maneuvers were not regarded as a competition of skill between the two admirals, the plan having been devised only to give Admiral Fletcher practice in disposing his ships to meet an attack under given conditions.

Buckhannan, W. Va., Nov. 20.—William Parker, aged 20, captain of the Wheeling high school football team, died tonight from injuries received in a game today.

LEA IS DEFEATED FOR U. S. SENATE

Eliminated From Race By Patterson and McKellar

IN TENNESSEE PRIMARY

Patterson and McKellar Will be Opponents in "Run Off" to Determine Nomination, Neither Securing Majority Yesterday.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 20.—Kenneth D. McKellar, congressional representative of the Tenth district, and Malcolm R. Patterson, former governor, both of Memphis, will be opponents in a "run off" of today's primary for the Democratic senatorial nomination. McKellar polled the greatest number of votes in today's election, complete unofficial returns from 93 out of 96 counties giving him 41,874 votes; Patterson 39,221, and United States Senator Luke R. Lea, who was eliminated from the race, 31,933.

Estimates of the vote in the three small counties from which only partial returns have been received, increased McKellar's probable total to approximately 42,500; Patterson's to 40,000, and Lea's total to 32,000.

The normal Democratic vote in Tennessee is about 150,000. McKellar carried west Tennessee, leading Patterson in that section by about 6,000 votes. In East Tennessee McKellar and Lea ran a close race with the advantage resting with McKellar, while Patterson carried the middle part of the state.

Shelby county, in which Memphis is located, gave McKellar 5,905 votes; Patterson 2,317, and Lea 134. The vote in three other large cities, Chattanooga, Knoxville and Jackson, favored McKellar, while Patterson carried Nashville and Davidson county, Senator Lea's home, by more than a thousand votes.

Senator Lea issued a statement late tonight conceding defeat and pledging his support to the winner in the second primary to be held December 15th.

FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS IN PASSPORTS FRAUDS EXPECTED

Result of Talk With Gustav Stahl, Now Serving Term.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Further developments in the investigation of fraudulent use of American passports are expected by Department of Justice officials to result from a talk between Gustav Stahl, serving a term in the Atlanta penitentiary for passport train bearin the relic was sidetracked of the department's Bureau of Investigation.

Mr. Bielaski left for Atlanta yesterday. It was said tonight that his visit to Stahl resulted from statements made by Dr. Joseph Goricar, the former Austrian consul, who recently charged that Austrian consulates in this country were centers for propaganda fomenting strikes in munition factories.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. GALT ON MOTOR TRIP

Greeted With "America" Played by Farmer Band.

With Mrs. Galt's Mother They Go on 200 Mile Trip Through Maryland —Many Gather on the Way to Greet Party.

Washington, Nov. 20.—President Wilson, Mrs. Norman Galt, his fiancee, and Mrs. W. H. Bolling, her mother, took a 200-mile automobile ride today to Point Lookout, Md., on Chesapeake Bay. They left Washington early in the morning, accompanied by a large secret service guard and did not return after dark.

As the party passed through the small village of Ridge, Md., they were greeted by a farmer band, and the entire population of the place, all waving American flags. The band, consisting of three farmers with a bass drum and two horns, played America as the President motored by. His automobile slowed down and he waved his hat.

At Leonardtown, the President stopped for a few minutes and held an informal reception for a large crowd which quickly collected. "You are the first President I've seen since Mr. Pierce," said one elderly man as he shook hands with the President. "He patted me on the head way back before the Civil War." Many of the people wanted to shake hands with Mrs. Galt, too, and she smilingly greeted them. Warm applause followed the party as they left the town.

Shortly after noon the party stopped by the roadside and ate a lunch prepared at the White House. At Point Lookout they alighted from their machine and walked along the beach where the Potomac river joins Chesapeake Bay. They also examined a monument erected over the graves of several hundred Confederate soldiers.

KITCHIN DECLARES WILSON IS SINCERE

Issues 5,000-Word Statement in Defense of His Position.

ON NATIONAL DEFENSE

Declares Programme Would Postpone for Generations Day of Universal Peace and Require Unprecedented Tax—"Prepared."

Scotland Neck, N. C., Nov. 20.—In a signed statement of five thousand words prepared for the press of North Carolina and issued today, Hon. Claude Kitchin, majority leader of the House of Representatives, comprehensively sets forth his position on the question of national preparedness, gives his reasons for his attitude towards the President's programme and defends himself against the attacks made upon him by and through newspapers of North Carolina and other states on account of his opposition to the policy of Mr. Wilson, as to which the Second district congressman says: "I know that he is convinced deeply and sincerely that his programme is right."

"The big, overwhelming objection to this stupendous programme," says Mr. Kitchin, "is that this sudden, radical and revolutionary move for big war preparation on our part is going to shock the civilized world, and whatever be the outcome of the present war, will alarm the world again into an armed camp. It will postpone for generations the day of universal peace for which all Christendom has been praying. It will deprive this government, through its President, of the greatest opportunity to serve mankind that ever came to nation or to man, in the final negotiation for peace terms among the belligerents, to lay the basis of perpetual international peace."

The House leader first takes up "the actual condition of our navy," and declares that "we have, built and building, the strongest and most powerful navy in the world except that of Great Britain; our navy is stronger than that of Germany, far superior to that of France, more than twice as strong as that of Japan or of any of the other nations," and quotes Admiral Fletcher as saying, that we have a navy "superior to that of Germany or any other nation except Great Britain." Other naval officers are quoted to the same effect. Mr. Kitchin emphasizes the fact that in the "preparedness" programme, Great Britain is eliminated, pointing to the Secretary of the Navy, Admiral Fletcher, and other naval experts and even Hobson as authority, quoting them as having declared that we do not need or desire a navy as strong as Great Britain's. The majority leader asserts that "we are prepared."

"The Enormity" of It.

Mr. Kitchin discourses at length on "the enormity of the proposed programme—what it is." Notwithstanding the fact, he says, that the President declared both before Congress and before the Manhattan Club that "we are threatened from no quarter," the proposed preparedness programme "at one bound—one year—increases our already immensely large naval appropriations more than our total increase for the last fourteen years; more than the increase by Germany the whole fifteen years preceding the European war, and more than the combined increase of all the nations in the world in any one year in their history (in times of peace!) The five-year programme increases our naval appropriation over 40 times more than the increase by Germany in five years preceding the European war and $200,000,000 more than the combined increase of all the nations in the world for the five years preceding the European war."

"Add to this the fact," Mr. Kitchin asks, "that prior to the beginning of the war we were expending annually on our navy from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 more than Germany or any other nation (except Great Britain) was expending on its navy."

The Second district congressman devotes considerable space to the "condition of the Treasury and its revenues and extra taxation required." After giving figures, he declares that "this is three times larger annual increase than was ever required or raised (and practically all of it must be raised by direct or excise taxes) at any time in the history of our government, except during the Civil War." He declares that no man yet has been able to solve "even the beginning of the problem of raising this enormous increase of revenue."

"Armed Conquest."

After citing the "big, overreaching objection to the programme," as mentioned, Mr. Kitchin quotes from the "Seven Seas Magazine," the organ of the Navy League, what he terms the "savage, barbarous sentiment" that "there should be no doubt that even with all possible moral refinements, it is the absolute right of a nation to live to its fullest intensity, to expand, to found colonies, to get richer and richer by any proper means, such as armed conquest." The House leader lays great emphasis on the idea of "conquest" as advocated by the same "patriotic society" that is leading in the agitation for preparation for "defense."

As to "the fears of our people," Mr. Kitchin asserts that they are groundless, only provoked by the European war and aggravated and intensified by the organized efforts of the so-called "peace societies" and the "war traffickers." Even if our fleet were not half as big as it is, declares Mr. Kitchin, it would be impossible for "Germany or any other country to ever bombard or land a soldier on our coast, provided we were equipped with mines and submarines," which he strongly advocates, maintaining that this is a lesson which the European war teaches. He maintains that the present sys-

HIGH OFFICIALS OF HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE TO BE TRIED

Trial Begins Monday; 100 or More Witnesses to Testify for Government.

ON CONSPIRACY CHARGE

Are Alleged to Have Obtained Clearance for Ships by False Representations.

New York, Nov. 20.—One hundred or more witnesses to testify against high officials of the Hamburg-American Steamship Line at their trial on charges of conspiracy next Monday, have been summoned by the government, it was announced today. Four of the five defendants have pleaded not guilty and the fifth has not been apprehended. The maximum penalty for the crime charged is two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine on each of the two indictments.

The defendants are Karl Buenz, managing director of the line, in control of a great fleet of German merchantmen and liners which sailed under the Hamburg-American house flag; Adolph Hochmeister, purchasing agent of the line; Joseph Kotter, superintendent of the line, and Felix Zeffner, alleged super-cargo on one of the vessels which sailed with supplies to the aid of German cruisers. Zeffner has not been found.

Unique Charge Faces Them.

A charge unique in American jurisprudence faces them—conspiracy to defraud and deceive the government by obtaining clearance papers on false representations. To facilitate the trial, counsel for the defense admits that the defendants chartered certain ships and sent them with supplies to the German cruiser Karlsruhe, Kaiser Wilhelm and other German men-of-war, active in the Atlantic in the late summer and early fall of 1914, as charged, but denied that these acts constituto a conspiracy to defraud or deceive the United States. The intent, it is claimed, was to deceive the Allies.

So well did the German agents know that war was inevitable, the government charges, that some of the 15 ships involved were chartered weeks before the war began and several actually sailed on their alleged errands of war before war had actually been declared.

Affidavits Support Charges.

To support these and other charges, numerous affidavits have been taken by the government. One of them relates to an occurrence aboard the Maria Quesada, a steamer sailing from Newport News, Va., on October, 1914, ostensibly for Valparaiso. This steamer, the government charges, had aboard a German super-cargo. When the steamer failed to find the German cruiser she was seeking, the affidavit recites, she put in at Pernambuco. The Brazilian authorities sought her papers. These, the affidavit continues, were placed in a bag and thrown overboard.

Several days later, the affidavit states, the papers, bag and all, were found in the belly of a shark which some Brazilians had captured.

Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars of German money, the defendants admit, was spent in chartering and outfitting four vessels for relief of the cruisers. This money, the government is prepared to prove, according to Assistant District Attorney Roger B. Wood, was placed in a New York bank to the credit of a man who was told to spend it under direction of Captain K. Boy-Ed, the German naval attache, and was spent in accordance with these instructions. Millions of dollars the government computes, were spent in chartering and supplying the 15 vessels which figure in the charges.

Ships and Their Sailors.

Two of the 15 ships, it is charged, sailed from Pacific ports and two others, the Fram and Sommerstad, were to have sailed from Philadelphia, but did not because the government was advised of their alleged plans. The other eleven ships, the date of their sailings, all in 1914, the ports from which they cleared and the ports given as their destinations follows:

Berwin, American, August 5, from New York for Buenos Aires; Lorenzo, American, August 6, from New York for Buenos Aires; Thor, Norwegian, August 3, from Newport News for Buenos Aires; Atina, Norwegian, August 7, from Philadelphia for LeGuayra; Nepos, Norwegian, August 22, from Philadelphia for Monrovia; Mowinckel, Norwegian, September 2, from Philadelphia for Monrovia; Unita, Norwegian, September 8, from Philadelphia for Cadiz; Graecia, German, August 27, from New York for Cadiz; Macedonia, American, August 29, from New Orleans for Cadiz; Navarra, September 5, from Pensacola, Fla., for Pernambuco. The Maria Quesada, formerly the Gladstone, which sailed in October, 1914, from Newport News for Valparaiso.

WILL BUY AMERICAN GOWNS

Denial Made That Mrs. Galt Has Ordered Dresses From Paris.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Denial was made at the White House tonight that Mrs. Norman Galt, President Wilson's fiancee, has ordered any gowns from Paris. It was said that all of her trousseau will be made in the United States. The denial was issued in connection with reports from Paris that the dressmakers' syndicate there had blacklisted a New York dealer said to have been commissioned to buy gowns for Mrs. Galt.

EVENTS OF A WEEK IN AND ABOUT LUMBERTON

School Building Destroyed by Fire; Loss, $3,500.

Mercury Gets Down to 26—Twenty-five Residence Lots Sold—Mr. J. W. Little to Speak—County Teachers to Meet.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 20.—After several weeks of beautiful autumn weather, this section has had a week of weather which could be termed anything but pleasant. Wednesday morning was the coldest thus far of the season, the mercury making the official record of 26. Thursday nigfiht the rain fell in torrents, while the wind blew a regular gale, but so far no damage to amount to anything has been reported.

Thursday forenoon the colored school in the northeastern part of town was destroyed by fire which is said to have originated on the third floor of the building. School was in session, but the fire was discovered in time for the students to leave the rooms in good order. The nearest hydrant was 1,500 feet away and the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the building. A four-room dormitory also was burned. The loss is estimated at $3,500 ,partially covered by insurance.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" will be the offering at the opera house Tuesday night of next week, the 23rd. Miss O'Connor, the leading lady, was seen here three years ago, at which time she made a most favorable impression.

Perhaps the largest and most successful residence lot sale ever had in Lumberton was held in the northern part of town Wednesday. Twenty-five lots were sold for a total of $11,168.50. For many years this land was occupied by colored people, that being the location for more than 30 years of Professor Allen's colored normal school. The lots were sold to the best class of citizens in this section and within a very few years it will be a leading residential section.

Messrs. W. G. Pitman and A. E. Spivey returned yesterday from the lower edge of Columbus county where they had been on a hunting trip. They report deer and other game as being plentiful.

"Some Corn" for Sale.

One of Robeson's farmers was inquiring the other day for a good place to sell some corn. He said he had two car loads already "shelled and bagged" which he would like to sell. That was his surplus corn crop after laying aside enough to run him another year.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Merritt were called to Elizabethtown last night on account of the death of the mother of Mrs. Merritt.

It is stated that on and after December 1st former patrons of the Bellamy postoffice will be served by rural carrier No. 5 from Lumberton. The office at Bellamy was discontinued some time ago because no one there would serve as postmaster. Since the closing of the office most of the people in that section have been receiving their mail through the Lumberton office, seven or eight miles away.

The Lumberton graded school will close Wednesday for Thanksgiving and will not re-open until Monday, 29th. The school will then change back to Saturday as a holiday.

Rev. W. B. Pope, brother of Dr. H. T. Pope, arrived Thursday night from Indiana to spend some time here in an effort to regain his health, which is somewhat impaired. This is Mr. Pope's first visit to his old home in eight years, and he is being cordially greeted by many old time friends.

Today Mr. R. M. N. Stephens completed his 22nd year as salesman for Mr. L. H. Caldwell. It is not probable that there is another salesman here who has remained in one position that long, and it is doubtful if two better men ever stayed together that long in this section.

The hunting season opened last Monday and birds are reported plentiful. Ducks also are said to be present in some of the ponds in large numbers.

If any turkeys have been brought in for Thanksgiving, the writer has neither seen nor heard of them. Your correspondent does not recall when turkeys were as scarce as they are at this time.

Mr. Little to Speak.

Mr. Joseph W. Little, of Wilmington, candidate for Congress from the Sixth district, will deliver an address before the Lumberton Presbyterian Sunday school tomorrow morning at 9:45. Mr. Little will address the Union Sunday school at the Jennings Mill at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Lumber river is said to be full of fish nets, regardless of all fish laws. However, extremely few fish are being caught, so that the nets are doing little damage.

Jerusalem oak seed are selling on this market at 1 1-2 cents per pound. Last year 3 cents was the price, if the writer remembers correctly.

MYRON T. HERRICK SPEAKS.

Pays Beautiful Tribute to Life of President McKinley.

Niles, O., Nov. 20.—Myron T. Herrick, former governor of Ohio, and former ambassador of the United States to France, was one of the principal orators today at the laying of the cornerstone of the McKinley Birthplace Memorial here. Mr. Herrick said in part:

"On the crest of a lofty hill in Canton there stands a stately monument commemorating the life, and the service to the nation, of William McKinley. It overlooks the city of his adoption, the scenes of his youth, and the simple home from which he went out to become President of the United States. The monument bears this inscription: 'This memorial was erected by the contributions of more than one million men, women and children in the United States, and many in foreign lands.'

"That monument belongs in a wider sense to all the people. This memorial, built near the site of his father's humble cottage in which he first saw the light of day, seems more intimate and personal, and will evoke a deeper sentiment in the hearts of those who knew and loved McKinley before the world claimed him. His thoughts often reverted here; it was to Niles that he came to open his campaign when nominated for governor of Ohio. You well remember the day, and your gratitude for the compliment he thus paid you. McKinley was a man of deep sentiment, and in all his success he never forgot nor neglected the friends of his youth and the home of his childhood.

"McKinley, possessed in abundant measure those qualities of mind and heart which pre-eminently fitted him for the high place he occupied, and he had in addition the rare gift of winning and holding the affection of those with whom he was associated, and even of those with whom he only came in passing contact. More than this, he had that most unusual quality of greatness—such as was possessed by Prince William of Orange and Lincoln and by few other great men in history—that of winning the love and loyalty of those who had never even seen him.

"When Governor, while traveling in a Western state with a friend, he made a simple inquiry of a laborer, who answered indifferently without looking up. In conversation with the friend, McKinley's identity was disclosed whereupon the man immediately doffed his hat, held out his hand, and proffered assistance for the entire day if needed. As McKinley left, the man said: 'Some day you will be our President.' As they drove away the governor said to his friend: 'It is strange, but throughout the entire country people of that class seem to know me and to have a genuine feeling of friendship for me. It is incidents like this which cause me to think that I may some day become President; their support would be a force to be reckoned with.' It was precisely that friendship that made him President; the other candidates and the great party leaders who opposed him in the beginning were powerless against that overwhelming sentiment, and one by one gave way and came to him.

"Few men in all the ages have so laid hold on the hearts of a people as McKinley did. When Prince William of Orange died, women and children cried in the streets; men, women and children all over the world wept when Lincoln was shot. McKinley's death was a personal, poignant grief to millions of his countrymen.

"McKinley perceived the importance of maintaining right relations with other nations, and his conduct of the Spanish War and of our part in the Boxer rebellion, and his views on international questions reflected a broad and generous comprehension of the changing position of the United States toward the rest of the world.

"He brought us from our era of exclusiveness into new world relations. The patriotism, the wisdom, the far-seeing vision that guided him, are alive today in America to lead us as we enter through a world crisis upon another period of history, into which as yet we can see but dimly. America is fundamentally idealistic. Once the right note is sounded, the original idealism implanted in us by our forefathers revives, for our nation furnished the example perhaps the only one in history ,of a nationality founded upon one pure ideal, without material interests, by men who expatriated themselves in order to attain justice and liberty."

WHAT IS A MORALITY PLAY?

The success attending the play "Everywoman," described as a modern morality, has whetted the appetites of those who have not seen this curious dramatic and literary product.

The mention of a morality play suggests an inquiry into the origin, character and purpose of the morality. In the rush of our modern world the drama as we know it is one of the accepted facts of life with little regard to the processes of evolution which produced it. A morality play, "Everyman," was played in the American theatres a few years ago by a band of English players but it was viewed only as a musty curio, with a contempt or pity for our ancestors, if that was the sort of thing they enjoyed. Of other morality plays, outside of occasional performances, the public in general know nothing.

Aside from having as its basic idea a homily upon life, "Everywoman" bears no resemblance whatever to the ancient morality. It is satirical, whimsical, and often playful. It abounds in light, in color, and is in brief, a moving panorama of the life of a beautiful young woman of our day who seeks love. The drama itself is the series of adventures which befall her.

The morality play reached the height of its vogue during the early part of the Sixteenth Century. Since then it has had but a secluded and dusty place in the library. In its original form it was the means by which the moralist and reformer promulgated his ideas. The stage was allied to the church and the masses being for the most part unable to read or write were addressed by the actor. The actors were, in fact, preachers, and their message was the fundamental principle of human experience. The character was simply labeled and tagged that there might be no mistaking his errand. Life, Youth, Age, Greed, Wealth, Wisdom, Death and Sin were bodied forth in material form, speaking friendly or menacing warnings or admonitions. Woman cut little or no figure in the English world of letters. Men impersonated femal parts in all theatrical representations and nearly one hundred and fifty years elapsed before the pretty face and graceful curves of Mistress Hughes were to transform Desdemona into a femmine instead of a bearded charmer, and set a fashion which will never be given up in theatre-land.

Therefore "Everyman" was practically sexless in character delineations while essentially masculine as far as the delineation goes. It was reserved for Walter Browne to offer to the public a woman as the principal character of a morality play. Browne was a singular character, himself. Man of letters, son of a Lord Mayor of York, English, actor, singer, journalist, rover, soldier of fortune, he had looked upon the seamy side of life in many lands and had toiled long and laboriously upon the play he did not live to see produced as he died tragically upon the very day of the first performance of his play.

Only in structure does "Everywoman" resemble "Everyman." In all other respects the two plays are diametrically opposed. The ancient work shows Everyman trying to patch up his disordered life, get his book of records in decent shape and find some friends who are willing to linger with him while he hurries to keep an appointment with Death.

The modern morality play, "Everywoman," is a chronicle of Everywoman's experience from the time she leaves her home, accompanied by three joyous companions—Youth, Beauty and Modesty—in search of the greatest of all prizes—Love. With considerable daring Mr. Browne quickly jumped his symbolic characters into environments familiar to everyone. After being tempted by Flattery, who finds a coign of vantage in her mirror, Everywoman goes to a theatre to become an actress and afterward rises to fame. On the stage she is deserted by Modesty, but she still retains Youth and Beauty, and with these two companions she still continues her search for Love.

We watch her successful fight against the snares laid about her by Wealth and Witless and Passion, and their machinations with the sordid qualities that infest metropolitan life and are aimed at every young woman in real life. Everyman found it impossible to return to even one of his erstwhile companions when it became known that he must make a quick exit by way of the grave. Everywoman finds it exquisitely pleasant to live, and awakens with a sob to discover that Youth and Beauty have at last fled along with Modesty; that Wealth and Flattery no longer court her; that Love is still elusive and finally is driven back to her first good friend, homely but warm-hearted truth, on whose breast she leans a tired and aching head, and by whom she is led back to her old home, there to find love, who has been waiting all the time at her fireside. Love, she learns, was always her next door neighbor. At any rate, she has found what she sought, and while Youth and Beauty are gone forever, she takes up what promises to be a happy life with Love, Truth and Modesty, who have returned to her at the first kiss of true love.

"Everywoman" vizualizes the big truths of "Everyman" and by presenting real men and women in places, theatres, Central Park apartments, midnight restaurants, with which we are familiar, brings the ancient dramatic scheme within understanding. The women in it are as real as the women in any walk of life, and the men we known. The principal woman is Everywoman and every woman is bound to recognize her.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—The body of the unidentified hobo, who served for a time as the hero of an Atlanta girl's morbid fancy, was buried with ceremony here today. Over the body a sermon preaching charity to the unfortunates of the world was preached at the cathedral of Saint Peter and Paul. From the casket the name of "Dr. Alleyne Hensley," bestowed on her phantom lover by Miss Julia Crumley, of Atlanta, had been erased and there was no other name to take its place.

Relations With Wilson.

As to the relations between the President and himself, Mr. Kitchin declares "we thoroughly understand each other. I know that he is convinced deeply and sincerely that his programme is right. He knows that I am thoroughly convinced that it is wrong." Further he says: "I cannot help believing that the military and naval experts have badly advised and misinformed both the President and the Secretary of the Navy."

Mr. Kitchin advocates a "regular, orderly, normal programme," and quotes the Secretary of the Navy as saying before the naval committee of Congress that "my theory is that our country ought to be carrying on its regular, orderly, normal programme as to the navy. * * * It meets the needs of the country." The Democrats supported that policy, Mr. Kitchin says, and it was enacted into law. He declares it is "making our navy bigger, stronger and more efficient than ever before—the strongest in the world except that of Great Britain." He is of the firm conviction that it is unwise and dangerous to abandon that policy, under the present circumstances especially, for the "big, enormous, revolutionary programme proposed."

Pays Respects to The Herald.

After explaining that his opposition to the programme is "as an individual and not as majority leader," the House leader concludes with a statement as to "the attacks by the New York Herald." He denounces as "a pure fabrication, a deliberate falsehood, manufactured in The Herald's office in New York for the purpose of forming a basis for its succeeding attacks and sensational stories," the purported interview in its issue of November 10, "No such interview ever occurred," he declares.

He calls attention to the fact that the owner of The Herald lives in Paris and that the paper has been fighting the Democratic party for nearly 20 years, and a few months ago, "to show its disgust of and contempt for President Wilson, while with the consummate statesmanship he was steering the country through its greatest crisis, loudly exclaimed, 'Oh, for a Roosevelt in the White House'."

18 POUNDS OF BLOOD

is the average quantity in a healthy adult, but it is the quality of the blood that determines our strength to resist sickness. With weak blood we find cold hands and chilly feet; in children an aversion to study, and in adults rheumatic tendencies.

In changing seasons get abundant fresh air and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals, because Scott's Emulsion is a rich blood-food that will increase both quantity and quality of the blood while it warms the body and helps carry off the impurities.

When multitudes of people are today taking Scott's Emulsion to avert winter sickness, and are giving it to their children, it is careless to neglect its benefits. Look out for substitutes.

YALE'S CRUDE ELEVEN GOES TO DEFEAT BEFORE HARVARD

Crimson's Strong Football Machine Turned Contest Into a Procession of Advances and Touchdowns for Harvard, Making a Record Score Over the Blue of 41 to 0.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 20.—Another perfect Harvard football machine rolled over Yale's crude eleven here this afternoon defeating the Blue 41 to 0 in a game in which the Crimson team surpassed all previous scoring records against the Elis. Before the powerful attack and defense of Captain Mahan's gridiron warriors, the Bulldog was helpless and even the fickle goddess of fortune that rode the blue banner to victory against Princeton at New Haven a week ago, fled in affright to the shelter of the Crimson. Before this combination of Eli's forces crumbled until the game ceased to be a contest and became a procession of Harvard advances and touchdowns, against which Yale fought in desperate but futile fashion.

Although the fighting spirit which Tom Shevlin imparted to the Yale eleven just previous to the battle with the Tiger was still in evidence, it availed the Blue nothing against Harvard's Haughton-instructed team. The savage rushes and tackles of the Bulldog occasionally checked the Cambridge advance for a moment, but after the initial period of the game the result was never in doubt.

The Harvard clan's hopes of a record Crimson tally against the Blue were not disappointed, for Captain Mahan and his teammates recorded the largest total ever scored by a Harvard eleven against Yale and the largest, but one, ever made in this eastern football classic. More than twenty years ago, in 1884, Yale defeated Harvard, 48 to 0 and had today's game continued a few minutes longer these figures would have in all probability been equalled or surpassed.

As it was the contest established several new records for the series, for Harvard scored her first touchdown against Yale in the stadium since that structure was erected 13 years ago. In addition Captain Mahan closed his football career with a wonderful display of gridiron ability during which he made four touchdowns and five goals from touchdowns for a total of 29 points, which is said to be an individual record for this series.

Assisted by a splendid team, Mahan romped around and through the Eli eleven for gain after gain, apparently not a bit hampered by the slippery and uncertain footing of the stadium turf. Watson, King, Harte, Botes and Soucy also shone in the perfect combination play of Haughton's gridiron steam roller. Across the line, Scivel Guernsey, Black, Way, Allen and Captain Wilson were the heroes of a desperate but unavailing stand.

The afternoon was far from ideal for football. A chilling gale blew out of the west carrying the punted ball at varying speeds and baffling slants. The wind spared none of the 50,000 spectators who sat huddled with furs and heavy woolen wraps and many were forced to leave or seek sheltered nooks from which they saw only portions of the contest.

The opening break of the game gave the Harvard supporters their first opportunity to cheer. The Elis, taking a harvard punt near midfield, rapidly worked the ball into Crimson territory until the Blue regions were frantically calling for a touchdown.

Here a fumble gave Coach Haughton's pupils a chance to show how closely they had been taught to follow the ball. Three Crimson players fell on the pigskin and on the first lineup Mahan sent the ball swirling down field with a powerful kick to which the wind added impetus. Bingham fumbled the catch and Harte, after three attempts, scooped up the ball and ran 33 yards for a touchdown, from which Mahan missed the goal.

Before the stunned adherents of the Blue had time to recover their composure the Harvard eleven was at work again. Taking the ball on a Yale punt the Cambridge team started a march up field which did not end until Mahan had crossed the line. Delayed passes, hidden ball tactics and other deceptive methods adopted by Quarterback Watson completely bewildered the Elis who were thrown off or drawn aside while big holes were opened in their line, through which the Harvard runners romped for big gains.

In the second period Harvard added two touchdowns and resultant goals. With the ball in her possession on Yale's 47-yard line, the Mahan brigade moved steadily toward the goal until within 13 yards of the line. Here the Blue forwards suspected a forward pass but instead the ball was both delayed and hidden until Mahan was able to slip through the widespread defense for a scoring dash.

The fourth score was gained along similar lines, although far more spectacularly. King was given the spheroid after the Elis had been baffled by the passing tactics in the Harvard backfield and skirting Yale's left end, ran 55 yards for a touchdown. Mahan kicked the goal.

In the third period the Crimson gained the ball on Yale's 21 yard line and a latteral pass Watson to Coolidge put the ball on Yale's four yard line and in four rushes the touchdown was scored. Mahan kicked the goal. Yale made a great effort to score in this period, using a series of short an dlong forward passes which for a time broke up the Harvard defense. In fact one perfect pass from Waite to Wilson sent the Yale Captain over the Harvard line, but the ball was brought back for holding in the Yale line.

It was this passing game that paved the way for the final Harvard score in the last period, for Botes intercepted the ball and ran to Yale's 32 yard line. From this point a forward pass gained 15 yards and then McKinlock plunged his way to win three yards of the goal. Again Mahan captured the ball over and kicked the goal bringing the score up t o41 to 0 where it remained until the end of the game a few minutes later.

During the 60 minutes of play Harvard rushed an equal number of times for 264 yards, to Yale's 57 rushes for 175 yards. Harvard kicked from scrimmage fourteen times for 566 yards, while Yale in the same number of kicks gained 471. Harvard made ten first downs to the Eli's six and completed two forward passes to Yale's three.

Yale was guilty of four fumbles to Harvard's one, but the Crimson was penalized seven times for a total of sixty yards while Yale lost forty yards on five penalties.

RETURN MATCH THANKSGIVING

"Yankee" Rogers Will Get Another Chance at Fritz Hanson.

Arrangements were completed last Thanksgiving night at Woolvin Hall, night between Fritz Hanson and Yankee" Rogers for a return match with the toe and strangle holds and hammerlock barred. It required some time to induce Hanson to give up his favorite hammerlock and go against the big and clever fellow with no chance to throw him except by using pure scientific wrestling, but the agreement was signed last night about 9 o'clock and the date set for Thanksgiving.

Hanson is easily at his best just at this time, and it has been clearly demonstrated that Mr. Rogers is "some wrestler." The fans of the city don't have to waste much time to know that their favorite is up against a proposition. It looks hard for Fritz, but no one can deny him the honor of having shown plenty of evidence to go up against this clever fellow who won the only scientific fall of the match Friday night.

NAVY CLOSES SEASON WITH DEFEAT BY URSINUS COLLEGE

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 20.—Navy closed the local football season by losing to Ursinus College today, 10 to 7. Though several of the regular Middie players were absent from the lineup, the team was a fairly representative one. The Pennsylvania collegians were outweighed and their attack lacked variety, but they had the Middies on the defensive before the first period ended.

Navy's points were gained in the initial quarter, Martin making the touchdown and Vail kicking Goal. Ursinus' single touchdown was made in the second period by Kickline and the goal was kicked by Shaub. In the final period Shaub booted a goal from placement for Ursinus' three winning points.

Many players are entered for the Tournament and with the links in unusually good condition there will doubtless be a number of fine scores turned in and perchance some new club records established.

BASEBALL PROSPECTS ARE NOW LOOKING MUCH BETTER.

Mass Meeting in Orton Hotel Monday Night—Much Stock Subscribed.

The League baseball outlook in Wilmington was the best last night it has been this year. A number of new names besides the ones reported when the amount was half raised for the $5,000 corporation were secured last night and the committee has been encouraged to work harder and the appearances are that the stock will soon all be subscribed.

Mr. J. W. Blomme, the chief promoter, had a letter yesterday from President Boatwright, of the Virginia League, giving the local promoters much encouragement. It was evident from his letter that Mr. Boatwright had rather have Wilmington on the list than Hopewell, and it is also known that Rocky Mount is pulling strong inside the league for Wilmington. It was stated in Mr. Boatwright's letter that the meeting had been postponed. It is possible that the meeting will be held Monday night, but that is not likely and Wilmington will have an opportunity to see what she can do, and will get preference over the other cities that are trying for the Petersburg franchise.

It was thought by the promoters last night that the whole $5,000 would be subscribed by Monday night, and Mr. Boatwright has promised to let Mr. Blomme know two days before the directors meet, and perhaps a representative of Wilmington can be at the meeting, soon to be held in Norfolk. The meeting tomorrow night in The Orton hotel is expected to see the completion of the corporation.

SOUTH CAROLINA CRUSHED BY GEORGETOWN, 61 TO 0.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The South Carolina football team, which a week ago held Virginia to 13 points, was crushed today by the powerful Georgetown eleven, 61 to 0. The Hilltoppers' victory caused many of their supporters tonight to claim for them the premier football championship of the South Atlantic states. Georgetown and Virginia have not met on the gridiron in two seasons.

Although three of South Carolina's star players were ruled out today because they were in the Virginia game, the Columbia squad came here confident of giving Coach Exendine's charges a stiff battle. But after the first period a close contest was turned into a rout, Georgetown rolling up 34 points in the second quarter and scoring at least once in every period. South Carolina made only two first downs.

Left Halfback Gilroy was the offensive star for the victors, scoring four touchdowns and making several runs of from 30 to 50 yards. His forward passing was said by many to have been the best ever seen here. Leighty ran Gilroy a close second in ground gaining and scored three touchdowns.

Georgetown's most effective play was an end run from a triple pass. Time and again this play completely puzzled the visitors and it almost always was good for more than the necessary ten yards. Forward passes also proved a big factor, three touchdowns resulting from this method of attack, while two attempted forward passes by South Carolina were caught by Georgetown players and converted into touchdowns.

ROANOKE DEFEATS STRONG CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY TEAM

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 20.—Defeating the strong Catholic University which earlier in the season shut out the Navy, Roanoke College earned a place among the best football teams in the Middle East by a score 12 to 7. Forward passes by Roanoke featured the game, while the lone touchdown earned by the Catholic University was the prettiest piece of gridiron work seen on the local field this season. Entering the third period of play with 12 points against them, the visitors required four downs to carry the ball the necessary two and a half yards across the goal line.

Roanoke college scored in the first quarter on a forward pass and in the second when a block punt was carried over the Catholic University's goal line.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—The Western Collegiate Conference season ended today with the championship honors divided by Illinois and Minnesota. Both Gophers and Illinois remain undefeated and both downed their strongest rivals, Wisconsin and Chicago. In their own game they played a 6 to 6 tie.

ARMY DEFEATS SPRINGFIELD Y. M. C. A. AT WEST POINT

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The Army won today from the Springfield Y. M. C. A. College 17 to 7. The Cadets had difficulty in getting their offense going satisfactorily and was held for downs once on a Springfield's goal line. Army's attempts at forward passing were poor exhibitions.

The Soldiers' first touchdown resulted from fine line smashes in the second period. In the last period, Goodman scored a touchdown after recovering a Springfield fumble. The other score was a goal from placement by Oliphant. Springfield scored a touchdown after a long forward pass in the third quarter, Miller running 40 yards.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—By a terrific drive in the first quarter, Illinois downed Chicago today 10 to 0 and clinched its claim to a division of the "big nine" conference championship with Minnesota. The victory of Illinois was due in a great part to Fullback Halstrom's line plunging and dashes off tackle.

PRAISE GENERAL METTS.

Fayetteville Papers Speak Highly of New State Commander of U. C. V.

One of the prominent visitors at the dedication of the Confederate Veterans' Home in Fayetteville last week was Gen. James I. Metts, of this city, recently elected as the State Commander of the United Confederate Veterans. Both of the Fayetteville papers spoke in cordial terms of the visit of this popular veteran.

The Cape Fear Morning News, a new paper of Fayetteville, has the following in connection with its article on the dedication:

"General Metts, of Wilmington, commander-in-chief of the Confederate Veterans of North Carolina, who recently succeeded Gen. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, held the entire audience at his command for several minutes by his Southern stories and melodies, and when he began to sing, as none but the General himself can sing it, 'I Am a Rebel,' he lost his control upon his enraptured hearers and his music, for a minute or more, was hidden beneath a round of generous and enthusiastic applause. He made himself the personal friend of everyone present in five minutes and all who were not there missed a real treat."

The following is from the Fayetteville Observer:

"Among the distinguished visitors in the city in attendance on the opening of the Confederate Woman's Home is Major General James I. Metts, of Wilmington, who is commander-in-chief of the camps of Confederate Veterans of North Carolina, successor to Major General J. S. Carr, resigned. General Metts is a battle-scarred soldier of the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, where he served faithfully and well. He was dangerously wounded July 2nd, 1863, while leading the gallant Third North Carolina Regiment in a charge up Cup's Hill at Gettysburg."

BOLD ROBBER STOLE GOOSE AT SIXTH AND RED CROSS.

One of the boldest robberies of the many that have taken place in the city recently occurred last night about 11 o'clock at Sixth and Red Cross streets when a goose was taken from the coop in a wagon which had just been taken from where Mr. W. W. King had had the geese on exhibit at the Corn Show.

Mr. King sent his driver, Mr. Allie Dixie, with a wagon to bring home his exhibits. When Mr. Dixie got to Sixth and Red Cross he stopped to go in a store to make a small purchase. While in the store the coop was broken open and one of the prize winning geese taken out. Mr. Dixie chased the robber about a half block, but lost sight of him. The report was made to the police and Sergeant Grimsley and Policeman Gray made an investigation but were too late to do anything.

Mr. King lives about three miles from the city on the Castle Haynes road.

TOP O' THE MORNING

All life is the breath of God. Sin is choosing to leave God out. The very act cuts off the source of life. The grammar of the verb to sin is peculiar to itself. It is this: Present tense, to sin; first future tense, following instantly on the present, to suffer; in the second future tense the verb changes its form, it becomes a noun—hell. That hateful, ugly word hell, which the lips utter only by compulsion when they must, for the sheer pain of it, is simply the name given to the place where God has been excluded. They who prefer to leave God out will gather together at some time by a natural moral affinity or gravitation.

Do more Industrial cogitation for Wilmington.

An old codger says the young fellows are insufferable egotists but they can't be blamed for it because they "just naturally get it from their mothers."

Thanksgiving Day will here next Thursday. It will remind us whether we ought to be thankful instead of discontented and disposed to growl about it.

If men are expected to follow the flag they will expect to be provided with the means of defending it in the event that it may become necessary to do it.

How about the Japanese tradition that all women are daughters of the eel, which always has the last word with a fool, though he may drop dead trying to talk back?

All that some men know is to dig themselves in when they get in a tight place, but there are some real slick artists who can see loopholes that everybody else overlooks.

"You are wrong about that," said one man to another. "You may be wrong yourself," replied the other, "and when you find it out you can agree with me unless you prefer to be wrong."

A New York police captain got mad and put a man under arrest for offering him five dollars. Probably the poor fellow didn't know how much it would take to keep the captain from becoming offended.

A lady wants the Columbia State to inform her why paragraphers are always referring contemptuously to 30 cents. We guess it is because 30 cents make themselves entirely too familiar with paragraphers.

Victor Murdock, chairman of the disintegrating Progressive party, proposes to go to war in stricken Europe. Probably he feels that war is not the only thing that is about the same as Sherman's idea of it.

President Wilson's responsibilities are greater than those of men who are leading the opposition. That is the reason that he should be taken more seriously than irresponsible anti-preparedness agitators.

Civilization and religion are in no wise to be blamed. They have too much barbarism to contend with. People only think they are civilized till the instincts of primordal man have a chance to assert themselves in a modern era.

If adequate preparedness is an issue as well as a national policy, there is no reason why the people in the Second congressional district should not hear both sides of the question at issue. Opposition to Representative Kitchin's position against national defense is not any more a fight on him than his opposition to the President's policy is a fight on President Wilson. A president is not always right because he is president, nor is a congressman always wrong because he sometimes differs with a President. It is a citizen's duty to get all the enlightenment he can from both sides so he can decide the dispute. No man can mobilize his common sense till he understands the question.

ARE REPRESENTATIVES REPRESENTATIVE?

People in the congressional districts in North Carolina want their representatives to act for them now and then instead of thinking they were sent to Congress to have their own way. A number of Congress who takes a position contrary to that of the people of his district is not representing them. If he does it in one instance he may do it in every particular. He is responsible to the people whether he is responsive or not, and he is expected to be accountable to them every two years when an election gives the people a chance to approve or condemn his course.

A representative is given only two years under the Constitution to give satisfaction to the people, and this shows that the Constitution regards the will of the people as of more importance that it does the will of a congressman. It is well, therefore, for a representative to sound the sentiment of the people instead of sounding his own sentiments without considering them.

Of course, questions may arise that were not an issue when a representative was chosen, so he is not pledged to the new issue. In that case, however, he may act on his own judgment, but it had better be based upon such judgment that the folk back home can approve by endorsement for another nomination and election. Of course, representatives must know that they have to give the people an account of their stewardship, or must be willing to stand or fall when their term of two years is up.

A term of two years is provided for a representative in Congress and that is all the chance he has to represent either himself or the people. If, however, he represents himself, he need not be surprised if the people do not care to keep him in Congress any longer. It might be better, therefore, for some congressmen to go back to their district now and then and put their ear to the ground. However, a congressman who represents himself in Congress doesn't do that, because he does not care to represent the sentiment of his district or to carry out the will of the people.

The judges of a representative's services are the people and the Constitution provides an election every two years so the judges can render judgment. Elections, of course, are not held for the benefit of congressmen, else they would be held only when a congressman gets tired and wants to resign. Inasmuch, however, as the Constitution provides for biennial elections, it solely recognizes the people as the sovereigns and leaves it all to them as to whether a representative has been satisfactorily representative of them or not.

The question is how far a representative can go contrary to the will of his people. He can go two years only and then he has to ask the people what their will is. He may have convictions different from those of the people, but unless they will surrender theirs he should consistently resign unless he is afraid his constituents would fall dead.

WHY WILSON WILL WIN

Colonel Bryan overlooks some of our militaristic traditions. On account of their military achievements, this country chose four presidents—George Washington, Zachary Taylor, Andrew Jackson and Ulysses S. Grant. In addition to that, it elected a colonel for President because of persistent rumors that he was the hero of San Juan Hill, in spite of the fact that he and the Rough Riders were holding down Kettle Hill while somebody else whose name is never mentioned was attending to San Juan. Why, it was only recently that one of the leading daily papers of this country referred to Colonel Roosevelt as "the hero of San Juan Hill," despite the fact that in one of his books the Colonel took the trouble to insert three or fours lines in order to correct a false impression that seems destined to drivel down into history.

Colonel Bryan is barking up the wrong tree when he throws out the eloquent hint that this country would rather stroke the dove of peace than to get in behind a brass band and follow the flag along a spectacular route cleaved out by our martial leaders.

We know why Wilson will win with his policy for adequate military and naval preparedness, but it isn't worth while to mention the main reason. The national need is bound to appeal to patriotic Americans, of course, but popular imagination today is about the same as that when the French followed Napoleon down to the day that his sun set at Waterloo.

The man who does things is the one who gets followers among men—Americans in particular.

HOW DEVELOPMENT IS RETARDED

The Columbia State in a striking way reveals how a state, county or city can be treated with injustice by some of their citizens who should be most interested in promoting their well being and progress. They not only do that but actually retard progress and do the very thing that depreciates the value of their holdings. Here is the way the State paper introduces the subject:

"A man purchased four or five lots in a city of South Carolina, paying $30,000 for them. They were assessed for taxation at the time of the purchase $3,000. The next year the assessment was raised to $7,500 (one-fourth of the purchase price), so the taxes amounted to $210 or more. The owner complained bitterly. "Why," said he, "the rentals of the property are only $450." The case of this citizen is typical. The holder of unproductive lands actually believes that the rate of taxation should be based on productiveness. So long as his lands are lightly taxed he can hold them for a rise in value and as population increases the value of the land increases. Nothing is so easy as making money by speculating in lands in the city or the country, so long as the State refrains from taxing the lands. For the holder of lightly taxed and unimproved lands, the public is at work all the time. By developing the lands in the neighborhood of his lands the public is adding value to them. In this way hundreds of men in South Carolina have amassed and are amassing riches. To do so doesn't even require a high order of business intelligence. Of all men the land speculator is the special favorite of the State. The landholder either should be taxed until he improves the lands adequately or sells them to some one who will improve them."

A dealer or speculator has a perfect right to buy and hold for a rise in the market, but he has no right to make the public bear the expense of his holding method. He should pay just taxes while others are required to do the same, and if he does not do so while his property lies idle and unimproved there should be some way to get what is due the tax collector when he sells out at a big profit by reason of his holdings. It would be only fair for him to pay taxes on the real or increased value of property shown at the time the deal is closed.

SENATOR SIMMONS' POSITION.

Since we have government by parties representing the people, it is always a good idea for the party in power to be united on national policies so the people can understand the party's position on vital questions affecting their Nation. It is not the position that a Democratic President or Senator or Representative takes that commits the party. It takes the majority of the party or its representatives to commit it, but when the acknowledged head of the party defines a policy and the majority of the party's representatives endorse it the others may as well do so unless they prefer dissension and disorganization.

A party with each individual representative acting to suit himself does not remain a party very long. The men who cause the dissension and disorganization are not party men but independents who are acting on their own hook and do not recognize their party as the political sovereign. When, therefore, a party is responsible to the whole Nation on national questions it should be united in its policy, for insurgency is dangerous, as the Republicans now realize. Some Democrats do not, but Senator Simmons does, hence this from the Newbern Sun:

"Senator F. M. Simmons, chairman of the Finance Committee, of the United States Senate, will support the President in every possible way during the coming session of Congress. If the other Democratic members of the House and Senate would follow the example set by Senator Simmons the party would be made a great deal stronger and there would be less dissension. There are but few members of the House or Senate, however, that are not in accord with President Wilson and it is assured that practically all of his plans will be put into effect."

The Democratic party is going back to the people next year on its record. It will ask endorsement of a Democratic President, Democratic administration and Democratic legislation. It stands to reason that if the President has not the support of his party and that it stands for one thing while he stands for another, there will not be anything upon which to go before the people for approval. It would be a divided house, and certainly two factions could not expect consideration at all. The Democratic party must be united, for after having suffered from division the Republican party is again getting together to avoid a second defeat.

A divided Democratic party cannot hope to cope with a united Republican party which knows the results of pulling itself into two impotent parts. When every man wants to have his own way his party can't have its way.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Three years ago a man who went to Washington confident that his services to a fearless and triumphant democracy would be rewarded with a cabinet portfolio is now a doorkeeper in one of the departments.—New Orleans States.

One of the most valuable contributing factors to the success attending live stock exhibits at our recent fair and at other fairs of this section has been the warm co-operation offered by the Southern Express Company and the railroads. Did you know that the Express Company has hauled absolutely free of charge all the pigs of the boys' clubs, chickens, etc., offered for exhibition purposes? And did you know that the railroads have done the same thing with regard to live stock? This has meannt that many persons unable to pay heavy charges on transportation have been enabled to send their prize chickens, pigs, cattle, etc., to the fairs. When these companies decided to co-operate with the Virginia-Carolina Fair Association they surrendered the opportunity to make a great deal of money but they rendered a service to the farmers of this territory which deserves the warmest praise.—Charlotte News.

The news from Kinston that the people who enrolled as pupils of the moonlight schools are clamoring for longer terms seems to aid in justifying Dr. Joyner's plan. The correspondent writing from Kinston said that 200 adults enrolled for the special tutoring at night, in East Kinston, a mill village section. At one rural school, he states, "there is a class of grown-ups who have become so enthusiastic over their progress during the first half of the moonlight-school month that they are insisting that the Moss Hill night school be continued through December." The correspondent further deposes and says "remarkable specimens of handwriting have been received at the office of the county superintendent of schools here" from the moonlight schools, and we have no doubt the word describes the offerings with exactness. This month of moonlight schools will probably be followed with another.—Greensboro Record.

That there is opportunity for North Carolina talent in the great field of statement. That there is talent—and much of it—in this State to produce scenarios of value is in the same class. An example of this is found in the case of former Solicitor Robert R. Reynolds, of Asheville, who will also be remembered as making a most strenuous contest with former Congressman Gudger for the nomination for Congress in the Tenth district. His photoplay, "Capt. Bob of the National Guard," is making a hit, and it is unique in that Captain Reynolds, an officer in the National Guard, wrote the scenario, directed the production of the play for the film, and took the leading role. There is State interest as well as national interest in the photoplay which is to be presented in a Raleigh playhouse today and tonight. There is a North Carolina tone to it in that appearing in the production are Governor Locke Craig, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Captain Reynolds, while the scenes are laid in the mountains of the State. The film play of Captain Reynolds has won high praise, and the success it is achieving is worthy of the attention of other North Carolinians who have any talent in that direction.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The census of 1900 gave Raleigh a population of 13,643. The census of 1910 set out the population of the city as 19,218, it being shown on the publication of the figures that this was far under the real number, as names of people who had not been listed were cited. The increase in the ten-year period was put at 5,575. Now there is going to be an "estimate" guessing of the population of various cities and towns in the State. In this guess, the State Board of Health in its bulletin gives the figures for Raeligh as 19,932, an increase of 714 in nearly five years. At the same time the guess work gives Charlotte an increase of 4,343; Greensboro, 2,965; Asheville, 1,730; Durham, 5,492; Wilmington, 3,415; Winston-Salem, 7,241. Palapably this is an injustice to Raleigh even if the estimate is made on the increase of the previous census period. But outside of that it is in evidence to any who walk the streets of this city and that has been a great increase of population since 1910. The very number of houses in the city, with five to a house as a conservative estimate, show the absurdity of the guess, for there are 5,845 houses, which would carry the population to figures approaching 30,000. The State Board of Health "estimate" not alone does a hurt to Raleigh in the size of the place, making it the sixth in the State, but it hurts in the death rate per cent, the basis upon which the death rate statistics are made being for 25,000 population. The people of this city have a right to raise objections to any such "horseback" opinion as to the population of the city. If the State Board of Health is going into the population estimating business in an official bulletin it should revise its figures and get into the line of reason.—Raleigh News and Observer.

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Wilmington Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Wilmington readers.

Mrs. G. T. Grotgen, 600 Ann St., Wilmington, says: "My kidneys were so congested that they couldn't act for hours at a time, then again the action was too frequent and the kidney secretions were scanty. During these attacks, I was in awful misery. My back ached, I was terribly nervous and felt weak all over. I couldn't rest, no matter what I did. Finally, I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Hall's Drug Store, and was wonderfully relieved after I had taken the first box. Three boxes made me feel like a different person. Since then, I have always used Doan's Kidney Pills, when my kidneys haven't been acting right, and a few doses have overcome the trouble."

Phice 50c., at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy — get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Grotgen had. Foster-Milburn Co. Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

OVER FOUR HUNDRED METHODISTS COMING

North Carolina Conference Meets Here Soon.

Arrangements Have Been Made for Entertaining Visiting Delegates But Homes for Thirty-Eight Are Still Needed.

With but ten days before the 79th annual session of the North Carolina Methodist Conference meets in Grace church, Rev. J. D. Bundy, who will be the conference host, stated last night that homes for 38 delegates were still needed. There are 392 members of the conference including 235 ministers and homes will be provided for all these. In addition to the regular members of the conference, there will be a number of additional visitors, making a total of over 400, who will be in the city from Wednesday, December 1st, when the conference begins, until the following Monday.

Wilmington's hospitality has become proverbial throughout the State and on this occasion, the city will have abundant opportunity to maintain her reputation. While most of the delegates will be entertained in Methodist homes, members of other denominations have kindly offered to aid in entertaining the visiting members and many have already signified their intention of taking one or more members of the conference as their guests. Mr. Bundy will appreciate it, if others desiring to entertain guests wil let him know immediately in order that he may complete the conference directory.

It has been 13 years since the Methodist Conference met in Wilmington but this is not taken to be an unlucky number in this instance. The conference has met in Wilmington at intervals of about ten years ever since it was organized 79 years ago.

Bishop John C. Kilgo, of Charlotte, recognized as perhaps the most eloquent and forceful Methodist minister in the South today, will preside over the sessions of the conference. Bishop Kilgo was for 15 years president of Trinity College in Durham and under his adminstration the college made wonderful progress. Although a native of South Carolina, he has lived in this State so long as to be entitled to being known as from North Carolina. He has spoken in Wilmington on several occasions and has many friends here.

Rev. R. H. Willis, of Littleton, is secretary of the conference. He was elected to this position in 1911, succeeding the late lamented Rev. W. L. Cunningim. By a long established custom, the position of secretary is usually held by the same man after his election as long as he is actively connected with the conference.

There have been several prominent ministers of the conference who have passed away during the past year, including Rev. J. N. Cole, for many years the able superintendent of the Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh; Rev. L. P. Howard, pastor of Duke Memorial in Durham; Rev. J. M. Ashby, pastor of the church at Elm City, and Rev. Y. E. Wright, pastor of the Farmville circuit.

There are 197 pastoral charges included within the conference with houses of worship, valued at $2,511,653. There are nine districts, each of which has a presiding elder. There are 178 parsonages, valued at more than $450,000. The total number of members of churches is 85,000.

According to the laws of the Methodist church, all pastors are required to be changed after serving four years. There are not as many this year as usual, the number being only about 20 whose pastorates have extended over a period of four years. However, any pastor may be changed to another appointment and it is likely that there will be quite a number of changes in addition to those who have served four years. The appointments which are made by the presiding bishop with the aid and assistance of the presiding elders are always one of the most interesting features of the conference.

There are only two pastors in the Wilmington district who have served four years as pastors on the charges they are now serving, these being Rev. C. M. Lance, of Southport, and Rev. J. P. Pate, of Whiteville.

SEVERAL THEFTS REPORTED.

Capt. W. A. Sanders Lost $80—Chickens Taken from House.

Several robberies were reported to the police yesterday, the most important being that of the thief who entered the bedroom of Capt. W. A. Sanders, No. 108 Church street, picked up the chair upon which his clothes were hanging, and carried it downstairs. The only thing taken from the pockets was a roll of bills, containing $60, which is one of the biggest hauls made during the past three or four months in which there seems to have been an epidemic of robberies started here. The money was in a loose roll in the coat pocket. There was another roll of one dollar bills lying on the dresser in the room where the clothes were taken, but the robber failed to get it.

Mary Nichols, who lives at No. 714 South Sixth street, reported that someone took six chickens from her chicken house. A man living at No. 830 Green street reported that someone stole some clothes from his home Friday night during his absence.

OFFICES ARE MOVED.

Howard & Wells Now Have Headquarters in Royal Theatre Building.

The general and business offices of the Bijou Amusement Company and the Howard & Wells enterprises moved during the past week to commodious quarters on the second floor of the Royal Theatre building, more room being necessary after the acquisition of the Grand and Victoria theatres.

A telephone will be installed in the office during the next few days, and all their patrons are invited to call at any time relative to the programmes at the various theatres, or for any other information. Mr. D. M. Bain, publicity and office manager of the company, will be in charge of the offices.

An improvement at the Bijou Theatre was the installation during the past week of a ticket booth and an automatic ticket selling machine, similar to the one at the Royal Theatre. The booth adds materially to the appearance of the pretty front of that popular theatre. A similar machine will be installed at the Grand theatre within a short time.

MEETING OF RURAL TEACHERS

Interesting Session Held Here Yesterday—Report of Superintendent —Teachers' Assembly.

A largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the rural teachers of New Hanover county was held yesterday morning in the Hemenway school building. Miss Eva Edgerton, teacher in the Winter Park school, read an interesting paper on the teaching of geography, which was followed by an instructive discussion of this subject. Two moonlight schools were reported as having been established, one at Seagate with nine pupils and one at Castle Haynes with ten pupils. In several of the school districts there are no illiterates.

A number of rural teachers will attend the annual meeting of the Teachers' Assembly in Raleigh next week. It was announced that all teachers attending the State meeting would be excused from teaching on Friday of next week. Professor Catlett will attend the meeting. Mr. Heman S. Shaw, principal of the High School, and Mr. O. A. Hamilton, principal of Hemenway school, will also attend the meeting. Mr. John J. Blair, superintendent of city schools, will be unable to attend.

Prof. Catlett's Report.

Prof. Washington Catlett, county superintendent of public instruction, in his last monthly report to the Board of Education, gives a very interesting resume of the activities of the rural schools. In connection with the report is given the statistics for October and November. The rural census for November showed that there are in the county 1,148 white pupils as compared with 1,069 for last year. There were enrolled in the white schools 737 pupils or an increase of 50 over the same month last year and 696 colored pupils, an increase of 66 pupils. The average attendance for 1915 also shows an increase over 1914. The average for white pupils was 641, an increase of 57, and 500 colored, an increase of 21. The report of attendance for October also shows a gratifying increase both in the enrollment and the average for attendance. "The effort to arouse interest in the school work among the parents has been continued," Professor Catlett states. "Mothers' clubs or Community Service clubs have been organized in nearly all of the districts. The purpose designed is to bring the people into closer touch with the schools whereby can be obtained civic improvements, better attendance, and punctuality on the part of the pupils.

"The septic tanks are proving a success except in many of the districts where the superstructure has been built by inexperienced workmen, ignorant of the principles of the tanks. We are trying to remedy this trouble.

"The water supply in many of the schools is unsanitary, owing to the use of surface pumps. In the Acorn Branch school, after two tests in the City Laboratory, the water was found polluted and the pump dismantled. We purpose to drive a pump in a different part of the school ground to get, if possible a better water.

"In the Carolina Beach District, we have a census of 22 white children of school age, but it has been impossible to get them in school. The old building is dropping to pieces. I have offered to attend a mass meeting of white parents to improve the conditions, but so far have not been able to get the people to respond. I have been unable to get but one committeeman to qualify in this districts.

"The colored school recently established in the South Wilmington is flourishing. I found upon visitation 20 pupils. The pupils are comfortably housed, but badly in need of desks. The establishing of this school not only carries out the school law, but is a great aid to the white farmers, who cannot get the better class of negroes to live and work among them unless they have school facilities. Most of the children attending here have had city school training, and they should have means for further education.

"There is a great need of suitable desks for children of different ages. Many of the children of 6 and 7 years of age are not supplied with desks of suitable size.

"Moonlight schools have been opened and gratifying results are following in the two centers, Delgado and Castle Haynes. It is too early to make a report of this work throughout the county.

"The additional teacher given to the white school at Wrightsville is improving the school work."

SENTENCED FOR 60 DAYS.

Abettor in Violating Prohibition Law Before Recorder.

Probably the most interesting case before Recorder Empie yesterday was that of Eliza McArthur, colored, charged with violating the prohibition law. Finding that this woman was only an abetter in the sale of liquor, Recorder Empie sentenced her to 60 days on the county farm.

Tom Hall was called on a charge of violating the driving ordinances, but failed. A capias was issued.

Several Deeds Recorded.

Several important deeds were recorded yesterday at the office of the Register of Deeds. Among them were: Christian Simmons to Annie Simmons for $100 and other valuable considerations, lot on north side of Wooster street, 125 feet east of Front, 40x49.5 feet in size. L. W. Moore to C. E. Clark, for $10 and other considerations, lot on north side of Marstellar street, 82.5 feet east of Ninth, 66x82.5 feet in size; W. A. Dick to G. W. Matthews, for $10 and other considerations, lot No. 47, Carolina Court; D. F. Capps and wife to J. E. Hines, for $100 and other considerations, tract of irregular shape in Masonboro township near County road.

REV. MR. REXFORD HERE.

For Several Years Pastor of Wilmington Methodist Churches.

It will be of special interest to many Wilmingtonians to know that Rev. W. L. Rexford, for many years pastor of Trinity and Bladen street Methodist churches, having been at Trinity on two different occasions and serving his full allotted time at Bladen, but now pastor of the Methodist church at Marshall, N. C., is spending some time in the city with relatives. He is a guest in the home of Mrs. J. W. Sneeden, No. 14 South Ninth street.

Citizens having guests to entertain for the Methodist Convention will find "The Orton" an excellent home for them, while in the city. no19-7t

THE CORN SHOW WAS A FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Over Twenty Thousand People Saw Exhibits.

Wilmington's Annual Fair Closed Last Night—Big Success in Every Particular—Public Generally Highly Pleased.

Twenty thousand people visited the third annual Corn and Agricultural Show which closed its doors last night at 10 o'clock after having been open for five days. The attendance would have been larger had there been more room. Wilmington business men made the enterprise possible by underwriting the expenses for getting it up but they will be called to contribute but very little, if any, money for the fair. The weather with the exception of Thursday was all that could be desired. Although the extent of the fair this year was much greater than the most enthusiastic supporters had hoped for, the fair next year will be on a much larger scale.

The fair remained open a day longer than had been planned for but the crowds yesterday were not nearly so large as on the previous days as but few people came in from the country. Many of the exhibits had to be removed yesterday in order to get them back to their owners before Sunday but there was enough left behind to make it well worth seeing again.

The closing event of the fair was the Corn Show ball in Woolvin Hall last night. There were more than 200 people present. Music was furnished by Grainger's orchestra. Besides the dancing during the evening, there were a number of special features including a prize contest for the dancers. This was one of the very pleasant and enjoyable events of the fair.

Co-Operation Notable.

One of the notable features of the enterprise has been the cordial spirit of co-operation of the people of the entire city and surrounding section. All joined hands to make the event a success and succeeded far beyond their fondest expectations. Enthusiasm and community pride was more evident on every side than in many previous years. The good results of the fair extend much further than the educational influences of the exhibits. It was a demonstration of what community interest will do. As such it will go down as one of the very big events for Wilmington.

Much of the credit for the success of the fair is due Messrs. J. P. Herring, Thomas R. Ames, C. Van Leuven and J. VanB. Metts, who have worked early and late in the interest of the Corn Show. They have been on the job constantly during the entire past week. They do not regret having done so; the results have abundantly repaid them for their efforts. Colonel Metts was chairman of the finance committee and to him is due much of the success for financing the fair. Mr. Ames was chairman of the executive committee and had general charge of the arrangements.

Mr. Van Leuven served as a member of the executive committee and also on the finance committee. Mr. J. P. Herring went out and brought in the exhibits. He succeeded most admirably. The exhibits were of high quality, of great variety and better than ever before shown in Wilmington. Those who visited other fairs this year stated that they were fully equal to any they had seen and better than most of them.

Civic Organizations Help.

North Carolina Sorosis has been one of the principal promoters of the annual fairs which have been held in this city for the last three years. To the members of this organization should be given credit for starting the movement for the first fair. The exhibits under the auspices of this organization this year were more varied than ever before and more attractive.

The members of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club and the Housewives' League joined in the movement and to each and every one the management of the fair expresses deep appreciation. To those in other towns and in the country must be given credit for bringing exhibits that were a wonderful revelation of what is being done in this section.

Mr. Howard B. Branch, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who served as chairman of the publicity committee, left no stone unturned to see that the people knew about the Corn Show. He did splendid work and deserves credit for having succeeded in giving to the fair the widest possible publicity.

A special event that was gotten up under the auspices of the Rotary club was the "Made in Wilmington" parade. This was one of the very big attractions and was a splendid demonstration of what is being done in Wilmington.

The closing day of the fair was marked by the same enthusiasm of the previous days. There was music during the day by the Hanover Concert band, which played every day during the fair, and last night the High School orchestra played. A special feature was the music by Mrs. Luck's orchestra.

At 9 o'clock last night, the handsome collection of chrysanthemums which Miss Lucy B. Moore had on exhibition was sold at auction. The proceeds were given to the Corn Show fund.

Exhibitors were busy dismantling their displays. It was surprising how quickly everything was gotten out of the way. There was no confusion; no hurry; but everyone worked quietly and effectively. The big tents will be torn down tomorrow and Market street on the river front will assume again its place as a thoroughfare.

The Corn Show Ball.

The closing event of the fair was the Corn Show ball in Woolvin hall last evening, which was arranged by Mrs. Paul L. Cantwell. There were more than 200 people in attendance. Besides the dancing which was greatly enjoyed by both those taking part and those who came as spectators there were a number of special features. Grainger's orchestra furnished the music. The hall was attractively decorated with flags and bunting in keeping with the decorative scheme of the Corn and Agricultural Show.

Mrs. Meares Harriss captivated her audience with a violin solo and had to respond to the encore with a second selection. Mr. W. O. S. Southerland, a native of Scotland, dressed in kilts, danced the Highland fling. The audience was so greatly pleased that he had to dance again after his first appearance.

PAVILION AT SOUTHPORT

Capt. John W. Harper Plans to Erect Spacious Assembly Hall—To be Completed by Next Summer.

Capt. John W. Harper, the popular owner and master of the steamer Wilmington, has authorized Mr. H. E. Bonitz, an architect of this city, to prepare plans and specifications for a large and commodious pavilion to be erected at Southport at an approximate cost of $5,000. It is the intention of Captain Harper and his co-worker, Mr. J. B. Fox, the purser on the steamer Wilmington, to let the contract by December 1st and to rush the work on the pavilion in order that it may be fully completed by April 1st of next year.

The building is to be 157 feet long and 67 feet wide and will contain 10,519 square feet of floor space with a veranda 15 feet in width and 224 feet in length. There is to be a dance hall 40x110 feet in size which can be converted into an assembly hall or auditorium, giving a seating capacity of over 800. As a dancing pavilion, it will readily accommodate 100 couples.

There will be a ladies' dressing room and a smoking room for men, conveniently connected with the pavilion. Modern and convenient plumbing fixtures will be installed and the building will be lighted with electricity. There will also be a large room for serving refreshments and an attractive soda fountain will also likely be put in.

The structure will be erected over the water near the location of the present wharf for the steamer Wilmington which will be torn away preparatory to the erection of a more modern and substantial structure.

Mr. Bonitz, who will make the plans, has had considerable experience in work of this kind. He designed the pavilion at Wrightsville Beach, popularly known as Lumina, the large pavilion at Carolina Beach and the delightful little pleasure pavilion, Overlake, at Greenfield lake.

Captain Harper has always manifested pleasure in providing for the comfort and convenience of his patrons and now feels that Southport should have a pavilion of spacious dimensions, attractive in design, that will aid materially in the pleasure of those desiring to spend the day at historical old Southport.

GRAND OPERA ARTISTS.

Second Number on Boys' Brigade Lyceum Course.

A great musical event will be the appearance here on Monday night, November 29th, of the Grand Opera Artists, as the second number of the Boys' Brigade Lyceum Course for this winter. Seldom do Wilmingtonians have the opportunity of hearing singers and musicians as accomplished as the members of the Grand Opera artists. This will be the star number of the course at the Brigade this year so far as expense is concerned, and some idea of the worth of these artists may be gotten when it is stated that this number will cost nearly a third as much as the entire course of nine attractions. Wilmington patrons of the lyceum for the past several years will remember with delight concerts given on the different courses offered by the Brigade by the Riheldaffer-Gailey Co., Metropolitan Grand Opera Co., the Metropolitan Quartette, and others. The Grand Opera Artists for this year is the most expensive concert company the Brigade has ever yet brought to Wilmington.

The personnel of this concert company is as follows:

Mme. Cara Sapin, contralto soloist, formerly of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Co., of New York, and the Boston Grand Opera Co.

Mr. Rafael Diaz, robust tenor, formerly of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company.

Mr. Louis Besserer, violin virtuoso, solo violinist, of the Boston Opera Co.

Miss Beatrice Holbrook, concert pianist and accompanist, pupil of Gobhard, and a musician and reader with an enviable reputation in American and foreign musical circles.

The management of the course has received the programme for the concert to be given by the above artists in the armory auditorium on the 29th of this month, and music lovers will be delighted with the selections. It is to be expected that singers and musicians of such standing will present music in keeping with their standards and ideals, yet the programme has been so moulded that people who perhaps do not understand classical music will enjoy it. For encores and in some of the major numbers, Diaz and Mme. Sapin sing old English ballads or modern songs of the more popular character. The programme follows:

Sonata in C Minor (1st movement, (Grieg)—Miss Holbrook and Mr. Besserer.

Aria, La Tosca (Puccini)—Mr. Diaz.

Songs, (a) Flower-Rain (Schneider); (b) Way Down South, (Homer); (c To a Messenger, (La Forge)—Mme. Sapin.

Piano—(a) Gavotte, (Gebhard); (b) Meditation, (Tschaikowsky); (c) Intermezzo in Octaves (Leschetizky)—Miss Holbrook.

Songs—(a) Bocca Dolorosa (Sibella); (b) Persian Serenade, (Ware); (c) Love, I Have Won You, (Ronald)—Mr. Diaz.

Aria—Sampson et Delilah (Saint-Saens)—Madame Sapin.

Duet—Cavalleria Rusticana, (Mascagni)—Madame Sapin and Mr. Diaz.

Sells Out to Mr. Schulken.

The firm of Schulken & Korb, automobile repairers, has been dissolved by mutual consent, Mr. E. H. Schulken purchasing the interest of his partner, Mr. Carl Korb, and continuing the business at the same stand, second floor of the Lassiter-McDuffie Company building. Mr. Korb has not yet decided where he will locate. Both are clever young gentlemen whose friends wish them every success wherever they may be engaged.

Made Advertising Manager.

Mr. Carl B. Rehder, who had been advertising manager for the Grand and Victoria theatres for Deluca Brothers, has been made advertising manager of all the Howard & Wells theatres in the city, succeeding himself at the two new acquisitions and succeeding Mr. Julius P. Taylor, as advertising manager of the Bijou and Royal, Mr. Taylor becoming manager of the Royal.

ATTRACTIVE INVITATIONS FOR AUTUMN FAIR HERE

The Autumn Fair under the auspices of Letitia Rebekah Lodge, No. 3, I. O. O. F., on Tuesday night in the Odd Fellows' Hall will be a delightful affair. Attractive invitations have been issued reading as follows:

"If you would thank the gracious Giver
For the blessings of the year,
Then its yourself we'd like to attend
Our Autumn Fair.
Come! Bring friends and family all
To Third and Princess, Odd Fellows' Hall
The admission is free
And a large crowd we hope to see.
There'll we songs, readings and music sweet
And the sisters are going to have
Lots of good things to eat
Then there'll be fancy work booths
And country store,
A real fish pond, with fish galore.
Then a gypsy girl, with candy to sell,
And your fortune, too, I'm told she'll tell.
Then there's to be oranges
Growing on a big tree,
If you don't believe it, just come and see,
But don't forget the place and the date,
Odd Fellows' Hall, November 23rd,
At a quarter to eight."

CARRIES CARGO OF COTTON

Italian Steamer Sails for Genoa, Italy —Ninth Cotton Vessel From Wilmington This Season.

Carrying a cargo of 13,066 bales of cotton, the steamer Alcana, 2,246 tons, in charge of Captain Gazzolo and flying the Italian flag, cleared early yesterday from the wharves of the Champion Compress and later sailed for Genoa, Italy. The cotton was consigned by Alexander Sprunt & Sons, cotton brokers and exporters. The net value of the cargo is $15,000. This is the ninth vessel to sail from the port of Wilmington with a cargo of cotton for a foreign port since the season opened in August. For the first time in several weeks the wharves are clear of cotton steamers, the Alcana being the last foreign steamer of any kind in port except the two German steamers, which are likely to remain here until the European war ends.

Somewhat more than usual interest is attached to the sailing of the Alcana for the fact that in order to reach her destination she must sail rough the zone in the Mediterranean Sea in which hostile war craft recently have been operating with deadly effect upon ships flying flags of the allied nations. In the Straits of Gibraltar, through which the Alcana is to pass, recent press dispatches report the destruction of a number of vessels by German submarines. In other parts of the Mediterranean, also, shipping has suffered considerably, according to reports, Italian, as well as English and French ships having been sunk.

WHAT MEANS THIS WAR?

—By—

Rosa Pendleton Chiles.

What means this war? Can sage or seer say—
This carnage flowing from the heart of peace
In undiminished streams of tragic blight?
But yesterday the modern idol Peace,
From West to East, took homage of the world;
Today, benumbing human sense, the shrieks
Embattled nations gasp reverberate
Along the trembling walls of human hope.
Speak, History, what mystery lies hid
In this miscarriage of a golden plan,
Builded for right and based on imminence
Of human peril? Does the answer back
To Crecy go, which freed the world of mail
And knight, and lifted yeoman to his place?
Or is it Marathon or Waterloo?
To the dazed vision of a stricken world
Not one of all the crimson fields on which
Red Battle waved his sword o'er tyranny,
Ambition's maddened course, or patriot's fire
Explains the meaning of this war. And yet,
O Muse, through ignorance and blinding tears,
We read that history will ever move
Along intrenched ways that take their toll
In blood, till practice in the nations' life
Is measured to their vision. Palaces
Built for the reign of peace may lift their tops
Above razed homes, partitioned lands, old loves,
Dead hopes lost in the debris of some field,
And peace tribunals look without their doors
Upon a buried mass of hopes and plans
In which earth loses more than all the wars
Of time could gain; then sign in solemn state
Each nation's name unto a bond no more
To suffer greed and scorn and molten hate
To master destinies aimed for the stars.
But accents sifting through the azure dome
Declare the time is not yet here when such
Can constitute unbroken law; for while
There Is gross greed and scorn and hate, will these
The yawning cataclysm precipitate
As time grows ripe.

Speak, Prophecy, and tell
The meaning of this war. What Hebrew seer
In wild, majestic sweep across the years,
Beheld this cankered horror in the breast
Of Love? What prophet of that olden time
Foretold that when all men were schooled to live
As brothers, suddenly from the abyss,
And steeped in ancient hates, should madly burst
Through the thin crust of civilization
The burning lava of modern fury
In expansive streams of desolation?
Perchance not one of all that wondrous band
Divinely raised to warn imperiled men
Of pending dooms, declared that here and now
Earth's glories and ideals should be shocked
By rude upheavals of forgotten hates,
And yet so plainly is it said that wars
And rumors of impending wars shall be—
Till When? Till from the breast of human kind
The savage shall be torn, and in its place
That great Idea that in Galilee
Arose, and since has swept in matchless power
Across a wide expanse of time, from East
To West, and all pervading earth, shall rule
Above all human petty thought or wish,
Into the seething, molten mass deep down
Within the core of life, 'round which, as 'round
Some central sun, swing enmity and all
Disordered primal passions that despair
Deal out, with slaughter, cruelty, and woe
In periods of revolution, must
Be dropped the alchemy divinely pure—
Transforming love of selfishness bereft—
Before men tread the earth as trod the Son
Of God. Too much have peace ideals held
The unsurrendered self back of the will
To weld mankind under the common right
Of brotherhood. As well to seraph wed
A satyr and charge to Heaven the bond,
As link man to the stars thus weighted down
To earth.

This war reveals to man his state—
Subconscious brute instinct yet dominant—
As no blow at a fused humanity
Since Cain's weak, homicidal thrust begat
A race of warring peoples. But, when once
The crucible gives up, transmuted, blood,
Waste, cruelty, and tears now surging mad
Within it, these may be prelusory
Of future settled peace, and nations raised
Above the monstrous letting of life blood
For conquest, tyranny, or spoils of power.
If Not, What Then? If human betterment,
Up from the heart of peasant, serf, and lord
To royal ruler, through the tangled maze
Of place and power and government, be not
The meaning of this war, this causeless war,
That looks beyond its end for reason or
For cause, since in its origin was none,
What can be but the last clear-sounded note
Of irretrievable decadence rung?

STERCHI-BANCROFT CO. FURNITURE FOR LESS MONEY

THANKS GIVING

Now We Got 'Em

About our Move!

Next October we are going to move across the street to the French Building, 108 N. Front street. We wanted this building because it is the best retail location in the town, and then we wanted this building on account of its long and honorable service to the community. We feel that this mantle of success will continue to hover over us. And we are proud to be its next occupant. It will be remodeled for a 25th Century Furniture Store, carrying under its roof everything from a teaspoon to a piano, for less money, and behind and underneath that store will be a foundation of progress, thrift, service, good merchandising, truthfulness, low prices, golden smiles, and the Golden Rule, mixed with all the love we can muster up to give you for your confidence in our ability to serve you well.

We are going to give you from now till Christmas Eve the biggest values ever given by a Furniture Store. In other words Old Mr. Dollar is going to get a glad and golden hand here. We have the best and most carefully selected and lowest bought stock in town and all you need to do to prove this is to look us over. It has been difficult to get Furniture fast enough, due to over orders of the factories. The new impetus movement of trade. Besides our own steady growing let us save you money. If you buy $25.00 worth we can save you $5.00. If you buy $50.00, we save you $10.00; if you buy $100.00, we can save you $25.00. Better think this over. Our stock is all new and we have a good selection.

Sunday Services

Change is universal. Everything that man knows is subject to it. Life and Death are alike phases of it. That which is not living and growing is dying. Whichever is taking place may be slow, but one or the other is certain to be the condition in whatever exists. Intimately connected with these phenomena is the process of nourishment. That which receives nourishment lives and grows. That which is not nourished perishes and dies.

In obedience to these principles we feed our bodies. We may feed them as we walk along the street, sit by the fire, stand by the desk or counter, or in any position we may happen to occupy, but we do not like to take our meals so inconveniently. A great deal of labor and time are expended that we may eat in comfort at the table. Why? Because the delicate organs that digest the food and render it available for the nourishment of our bodies require careful handling. Suitable food is necessary. The conditions under which it must be taken must be favorable. Therefore we go to the table where these things may be had.

The human spirit is no exception to the principles stated in the first paragraph. It may be fed at home, in the woods, on the street, motoring or driving, or anywhere, but there is many an impoverished human soul that is slowly dying from spiritual indigestion because it has been fed in such irregular fashion. Every soul needs to go to the sanctuary where suitable nourishment may be had. The alternative is death. The churches are open.

APPEAL FOR ONE DAY'S INCOME FOR ORPHANS

The North Carolina Orphan's Association urges upon every man, woman and child in the State of North Carolina the importance of contributing one day's income to the orphanage work of the State as a Thanksgiving offering. Thousands of children are safely sheltered in our orphans' homes, but four times as many are as yet uncared for will give the price of one day's labor to the orphanage work, it will mean the salvation of a thousand North Carolina children now on their way to the dogs and the devil. Is this work not worthy of the best effort of every good citizen?

We must enlarge our orphanages, and admit more of the little ones on the outside, who are clamoring to come in. Each institution in the State is crowded to its utmost capacity, with a stream of children standing at the gates and crying for admission. If a tithe of the citizens of North Carolina will give the price of one thousand North Carolina children now on their way to the dogs and the devil. Is this work not worthy of the best effort of every good citizen?

Governor Endorses Movement.

In a personal letter to a member of the Publicity Committee, His Excellency, Governor Locke Craig, wrote on November 3: "I have read with interest the address to the press of North Carolina made by the committee composed of M. L. Shipman, J. R. Young, J. S. Carr, Archibald Johnson, C. B. McNairy and Hight C. Moore. I hope that the people will read this address and profit by it. It sets forth the work of the institutions for the orphans of the State with earnestness and power. It is an appeal that will have its effect, and will meet with response from the good people of North Carolina."

Appeal of President Paris.

The President of the North Carolina Orphans' Association, Rev. Zadok Paris, of Lincolnton, sends out this appeal: "Whereas, our kind Father above has blessed us with peace and plenty, and in recognition of this, the President of the United States and the Governor of North Carolina have set apart Thursday, November 25, 1915, as a National Thanksgiving Day, I, Zadok Paris, President of the North Carolina Orphans' Association, do respectfully ask every citizen of North Carolina, irrespective of color, politics, or religion, to set apart one day's earnings to be sent on Thanksgiving Day, to the Orphanage of his choice, or some needy orphan in his community."

Exmple of a Devout Doctor.

This interesting story appeared in the Winston-Salem Journal, November 7: "The Movement, started in January, when a central committee, composed of people of all denominations, met in Raleigh and decided to ask every man in the State to set apart the earnings of one day and give it to the Orphanage in the State in which he was most interested, is already gaining ground. One man, a physician, decided not to wait until Thanksgiving to make his donation, as had been suggested, but used a novel way in selecting a day in October and has already sent in a nice little sum toward helping the fatherless and motherless. His letter to Mr. Walter Thompson, Superintendent of the Childrens' Home here, reads as follows: 'I named October 22 as the day to give what I made to the children. This was a chance day, as I put the dates of October in a hat and this date was drawn out. I did $23 worth of work that day, and collected $10 of it, for which I am sending you check. The balance, $13, was charged, but I think I shall be able to collect it and when I do I shall forward it to you. The same day I performed an operation on a boy in one of the charitable institutions near by, and treated several children for our local associated charities. The amount could have proven smaller, also larger, and I hope next year it will prove a better one."

GERMANS OVER-RUN AT BATTLE OF CHAMPAGNE

Assault by the French Was Surprisingly Sudden.

Eye Witness Tells of Great Victory for the French Forces—Many German officers Captured in Their Beds

Paris, Oct. 30—(Correspondence of Associated Press).—Eye-witnesses of the battle of Champagne declare that the French assault beginning at 9:15 in the morning of September 25 developed such impetus in the first twenty minutes that the Germans, though expecting it, were simply overrun. Men on guard in the trenches had scarcely time to fire. The artillery in the rear, whose role was to maintain a barrier of fire before their lines in case of attack, opened only after three waves of assailants had already passed out of range. The troops advancing from Perthes reached the German camp behind the lines and in a single rush killed the guards and made many officers prisoners in their beds. North of Beausejour the first bound carried the line to the positions of the German artillery; in a twinkling the gunners were bayoneted and the line went on.

The progression was not everywhere uniform because the artillery fire had not everywhere destroyed the armored redoubts sheltering machine guns. The French advanced in parallel or converging columns, according to the ground in front of the different sectors; in some places the object was a frontal attack for the capture of trenches, in others the aim was to encircle the enemy's positions. Over the whole line of attack it was only on the extreme flank at Auberive and in the neighborhood of Servor that the Germans held their ground. Unable to advance at these points, the French pursued their attacks so vigorously the adversary was unable to detach any of his men to reinforce the center.

The two converging columns that were to meet at a fixed point behind the Sabot woods formed their junction before the Germans detected the move and the 2,000 men caught inside the wedge thus formed raised a handkerchief in guise of the white flag after holding out three days. Two other columns encircled the height called Mammelle Sud on which were the formidable defense works named the Trapeze and took more than a thousand prisoners.

Speed, in the opinion of some authorities, cannot be said to have won the battle of Champagne alone; there was first the artillery preparation that comes in for a large share of the credit and then there were many positions that were taken only after several days of struggle in which attacks and counter attacks were alternately successful. Speed alone, however, it is thought, may explain the extent of the success judged by the German losses in proportion to the extent of the field: 25,000 prisoners, 143 cannon and 115,000 killed and wounded over a field covering less than 50 square miles.

At the battle of Iena the French took only 15,000 prisoners and 200 cannon while the Prussians lost 12,000 killed. At Austerlitt Napoleon took only 12,000 prisoners and 186 cannon. At Froeschwiller the French lost 9,000 prisoners, 5,000 killed and 28 cannon, while at Saint Privat they lost 12,000 men to the Germans 10,000.

In the battle of Champagne the losses in prisoners exceeded the total in any one of the above decisive battles and their total losses nearly equal the aggregate in all four. The losses of the units engaged the 25th and 26th of September, according to French information, ran from 40 per cent to 80 per cent of the total while the reinforced units lost an average of 50 per cent. On this basis the French official estimate of the total German losses at 140,000 is declared to be conservative since there were 99 battalions on that front before the battle began and 93 battalions were sent to reinforce them, making a total of 223,000 men, among whom the losses averaged 70 per cent. Nearly all the first line troops were either killed or captured.

Wilson, N. C., Nov. 19.—In the superior court, M. W. Bradley was given judgment against the Atlantic Coast Line for $4,750. Bradley was an employe of the company and sustained serious injuries while attending his duties. The case was settled Friday.

THREE MILLION MUST BE CLOTHED AND SHOD

Or Suffering of Women and Children Will be Desperate.

Urgent Appeal Issued to the People of the United States by Commission for Relief in Belgium—Cardinal Gibbons.

New York, Nov. 19.—Over three million persons in Belgium and Northern France, mostly women and young children, must be clothed and shod by Christmas. If the garments and shoes for these destitute people are not forthcoming at once, their sufferings during the winter will become desperate.

Such is the note of an urgent appeal issued to the people of the United States by the Commission for Relief in Belgium. The New York Committee has received from Mr. Herbert Hoover, chairman of the commission, the following statement:

"It appears to me that it is necessary for us to go frankly to the American people and ask them to clothe the destitute in the occupied areas of Belgium and Northern France during the coming winter.

"There are nine million people in these areas and of these over one-third are now either wholly or partially destitute and are today receiving their food either wholly or partially without payment.

"As you know we have set up economic measures based on the ability of a portion of the population to pay for its food which, with the contributions of other countries, enables us for the present to find the bare minimum of food supplies for the whole nine million people, but we have no reserves with which to provide clothing for the destitute. We now plead for help on their behalf.

"Even if these nine million people had money they could not import clothes, or the raw materials with which to manufacture them, through the blockade into an area under military occupation. While the better classes have some clothing with which they can get along, the destitute are composed of the working classes which naturally had little reserves of clothing when the war broke out. The only additions they have received since then have been the generous contributions from America, Canada and elsewhere. By Christmastime all the clothing which we have in our various establishments will be exhausted.

Suffering Ahead.

"It is a certainty that the undue exposure of underclad men, women and children to the bitter winter will greatly increase mortality. The clothing for these people can be provided only if we receive gift supplies for the purpose. We must depend upon the American people.

"We have arranged that the cost of transportation of clothes from any central point in the United States to Belgium and Northern France and of the distribution will be paid for out of funds which have been especially provided so that the whole American contributions will reach the destitute without one cent of deduction.

"In the matter of the character of clothing for these people, we are surrounded with a multitude of difficulties. In the first instance the drastic sanitary arrangements made by the governments through whose territory we must pass make the introduction of second-hand clothing, especially in the areas of the operating armies where the want will be greatest, practically impossible.

"We therefore must ask frankly for new clothing and more particularly for unmade material. Not that the destitute in Belgium and Northern France are not intensely grateful for second-hand clothing, but as a matter of necessity, we are forced to ask only for unworn stuffs.

"It must be borne in mind that those for whom we appeal are living under almost total industrial paralysis; that many millions of them are idle, and that the cry we have from them daily is: 'Give us something to do, give us something to work on, so that we may contribute to our support.' Therefore if we can provide them with materials they will make up their own clothing. Furthermore the poor of Belgium and Northern France can devise an extraordinary amount of clothing out of a given piece of cloth and can work in such materials to patch up their own clothing. For this reason we are anxious to secure piece goods as far as possible, or, alternatively, unworn made-up clothing."

Gibbons Endorses Appeal.

Cardinal Gibbons, telegraphing the relief commission from Baltimore said he hoped and prayer the people would respond to the commission's humane appeal. His telegram follows:

"I am happy to learn of the deep interest which the President has taken in the grand mission of mercy upon which you have entered and I sincerely hope and pray that the people of our generous country will respond to this humane appeal for those who are suffering in Belgium and Northern France from the effects of the war."

WITH THE CLUB WOMEN

Federation News of North Carolina.

By Miss Mary Moses.

Mrs. Palmer Jerman, chairman of the Peace Committee, of the Education Department, has submitted for publication the following interesting article on Peace:

The horror of the European war has turned the thoughts of Club Women to Peace as never before, and it is hoped that each club in North Caroline will devote one program to this subject. The Peace Committee of the General Federation makes the following suggestions for study and work, and unlimited material may be obtained from the World Peace Foundation, 40 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston, Mass.

"What Club Women are Urged to Do."

1. Make your club president ex-officio a member of the American Peace Society, thus securing regularly its valuable monthly, "The Advocate of Peace" ($1.00 a year,) or simply subscribe for this and circulate it. Have your club put on the mailing list of the World Peace Foundation.

2. Get full information about the Seabury prizes of $300 for seniors in normal and secondary schools and the Black prizes of $300 for college women students for the best essays on international peace, and stimulate the young people in your locality to compete.

3. Petition your local librarian to put all peace literature herein mentioned, and also a good share of the books that are published in the "International Library" into the library.

4. Ask school superintendents and teachers whether they receive annual reports of the American School Peace League, which has branches in nearly 40 states. Ask them to have suitable peace exercises on May 18—Peace Day—in the schools.

5. Ask your United States Senator and Representative whether they belong to the Arbitration Group in Congress and to the Interparliamentary Union. Inquire whether they believe in the maintenance of a great army and navy. Remind them that the United States now spends more for its army and navy, in proportion to its total expenditure, than any other nation except Germany. This country, the one least exposed to danger, and Germany, the one most exposed to danger, each spends 43 per cent of all its national revenues in preparation for future war.

6. Ask your peace committee to apply to the World Peace Foundation for a list of the bills pending in Congress which favor or endanger the cause of peace. See that these are mentioned to your clubs, and recommend letters to congressmen supporting or opposing these measures, to be sent either by club members as individuals, or by the united action of the club. The World Peace Foundation has a special department of Women's organizations, under Mrs. Anna S. Duryea, which will always serve the clubs in every way in its power, arranging for lectures, etc., and will send copies of this leaflet to all applicants.

7. See that your pastors are supplied with peace literature, and asked to give a discourse on peace on the Sunday preceding or following May 18, and to appoint in each church a committee on peace which shall apply for suggestions for fruitful activity to the peace departments of the Federation of Churches, 215 Fifth avenue, New York City.

8. Organize a class for study of peace literature. Much of this has high literary, historic, and economic value. Correlate your study with conservation work—the conservation of life and hard-earned taxes; relate it to your work in history and literature, economics, civics and current events—e.g., show how the budget for the National Children's Bureau is less than the cost of annual repairs on two torpedoboat destroyers. Show your neighbors how the substitution of the system of law for the system of war touches immigration, high cost of living, and the possible speed of all other reforms, and involves no change of human nature nor waiting for the millennium.

9. Proclaim the fact that, including the Carnegie Peace Endowment, all the income in the world now available for peace purposes only equals three-quarters of the cost of one little torpedoboat destroyer, and that vastly more is necessary to overcome by education the reactionary and stupid policies now so fiercely advocated by those who are interested in deceiving the public and creating war scares, and who have large funds and enormous influence at their disposal. Spend money for prevention rather than for palliatives. Show to those who may leave bequests that world organization and the substitution of courts for war would do away with half our charities and double the income of all those that remained. Ponder the tremendous significance of this.

5. Little, Brown & Co., 34 Beacon street, Boston.
6. American Association for International Conciliation, Substation 84, New York City.
7. Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, secretary School Peace League, 405 Marlborough street, Boston.
8. Ginn & Company, 29 Beacon street, Boston.

The Woman's International Review, Times Building, New York City, has a peace department. This plans to present monthly, beginning August, 1913, a lesson on the peace movement which is designed especially for clubs.

These suggestions can be adopted by the education department of the clubs to suit their various needs.

WILMINGTON TO PLAY AT GOLDSBORO THANKSGIVING.

Game to Decide East Carolina Championship is Announced—Denied.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 20.—According to information given out tonight, Goldsboro will play Wilmington High School football team in this city Thauksgiving Day to decide the Eastern Carolina championship.

Much interest is manifested throughout this section of the State in the contest and, if the two teams meet on that date, the attendance will be a record breaker. A repor has been circulated throughout the State that Goldsboro was afraid to meet the Wilmington team, but this was erroneous.

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 20.—Officials of Goldsboro High School deny the report that Goldsboro will play Wilmington Thanksgiving Day. They contend that Goldsboro has already met all the requirements of the University committee and insist that it be declared champion of Eastern Carolina.

GREEKS' SENTIMENT CHANGING.

Now "Slightly Incline" to be on Side of the Central Powers.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 20.—The Greeks in the towns of this section a couple of weeks ago were easily the most ardent champions of the Allies to be found in North Carolina. Today they are "slightly inclined" to be on the side of the Central Powers. This is another proof that their's is the most patriotic race in Europe. Ready to stand by anything the folks back home do or say, these Ameriran descendants of the heroes who reformed the Rome that stole their thunder admit, even the most conservative of them, now, that they "don't care a rap" if Athens does root for the Germans.

Bell Rang No One There!!

Sometimes when your telephone bell rings and you answer it, the operator says: "Number please?" Naturally you are surprised and wonder why the bell rang if no one called you.

Sometimes—very rarely—this is the operator's mistake. Most frequently it was because you were slow to answer and the calling party grew tired of waiting and left the telephone. An immediate answer makes for perfect service. It is not always possible so we ask that you answer as quickly as you can and remember that these annoyances are not always the operator's fault.

LETTERS FROM CHINA TO THE WILMINGTON PRESBYTERIAL

Dr. George C. Worth Tells of the Success of Woman's Hospital Just Completed at Kiangyin—Message Read to Recent Meeting of Women at Wallace—How the Institution Was Constructed.

Members of the Wilmington Presbyterial all over the district will be interested to know of the success of the Woman's Hospital they have just had erected at Kiangyn, China. The hospital is in charge of Dr. George C. Worth, who recently wrote in interesting account of the building and official opening. This account was addressed to the Ladies of the Wilmington Presbyterial and read to them at their recent meeting at Wallace. It follows:

Kiangyin, China, Aug. 11, 1915.

To the Ladies of the Wilmington Presbyterial.

Dear Friends: If this letter comes to you not very well composed, just kindly attribute the failure to the motion of a Chinese houseboat upon which a trip is being made to a distant country point to attend a very ill patient. With an automobile and a good road this call could be made by a doctor at home in the course of an hour and a half, but it is going to take me the whole day. It is a pleasure to report that lately we are receiving more of these calls, thereby widening our influence and also increasing our income. For this call today our hospital will receive about five dollars (Mexican or Chinese Currency $13). This will strike you as very little for a whole day's travel and work, but it is a very fair charge for this part of the world. The people are well-to-do or we would go for less or even for nothing. More and more we are getting the rich to help pay for the poor, and the rich enjoy the process, too, if kept within reasonable bounds.

After many delays and difficulties, it is a pleasure to report to you that our long-looked-for Woman's Hospital is actually occupied at last and launched upon what we pray may prove a long career of blessing.

It cannot be called complete as yet, for there remain a good many things of lesser importance to be finished before we can think of using the word complete; nevertheless, it is opened, the cots and necessary furniture is in place, the staff is present, and we have had a number of patients. The beautiful new operating room was so enviting, and the old one so cramped and unsatisfactory, that we made haste to get into the new one before the rest of the building could be used. Little by little things have been put in order. Miss Albaugh opened her nurses training school with three nice young women, she and the lady doctor and Mrs. Worth teaching them, and they were set to work to get the operating section into working order. There was long delay caused by failure of the cots to arrive. They were ordered from Chicago, but as all freight to the Orient was congested on the west coast of the United States by lack of ships, we were obliged to put up with disappointment like many other folks. Our light blankets for spring and fall use were also slow about coming. It will please you to know that when we approached the big cotton mill here to buy better grade of cotton for making our winter quilts and small mattresses a very substantial reduction was given us, accompanied with the statement that they would like to have a hand in our good work. This was in addition to their annual kift of $50 Chinese currency t othe hospital.

The tank for our water supply was contracted for six months ago, and should have been long ago finished, but owing to some kinds of material being no longer shipped to Shanghai from Europe, the tank is still unfinished. However, it will be complete this week or next. Fortunately, the contract for the building was given about two months before the war broke out, and so the contractor had secured nearly all his materials before the prices went up, but as the furniture and equipment had to be purchased later we have been hard put to it to make ends meet. Our estimates were made under normal prices and we reserved from our original $5,000 sufficient money to buy what was needed with a good margin left over for unforeseen things. Since the war came and all prices were upset we have been doing a lot of turning and twisting to get through. In spite of it all we have come out only about $260 U. S. currency in debt. While this is not a large sum, it hangs over us, and we feel that it is only fair to the Presbyterial to know just how the building scheme stands financially.

The Woman's Hospital (Not Ward)—stands two stories high with a roomy attic in which quarters for women servants will later be arranged, and also a room for the night nurse to sleep in during the day, giving her a quiet place for rest. The building consists of the following divisions.

Four Wards, two of six cots each, and two of three cots each.

Seven private rooms of two cots each and an isolated ward of six cots arranged in thre rooms. This latter is separated from the main building and was a gift to the hospital from the Luola Murchison Sprunt Academy from tuition fees, etc. The contagious cases from the Academy have heretofore been kept in a little out house at the school, a very unsatisfactory and risky arrangement, so Dr. Venie J. Lee, the principal, offered to give us the funds needed to build this little ward, an arrangement which provides the hospital with an indispensable adjunct, and the girl's academy with a safe and satisfactory place for the frequent cases of contagious diseases that will crop out in a school.

You will thus see that there are 38 cots, and four others can be put in without overcrowding. Besides accommodations for patients there are also rooms for lady doctor, matron, head nurse, five nurses, surgical treatment room, maternity room, and two bath rooms, and last but by no means least, the large convenient operating section. This last consists of operating room proper, sterilizing room, and doctor's dressing room. The rain water tank is connected with the operating room, supplying it and the bath rooms and the treatment rooms. The operating room has already proved itself a great blessing, and we are now able to do our surgical work in a clean and satisfactory way. This section is connected by a covered bridge with the old hospital, now the men's hospital. Back and forth across this bridge the patients from operation from the men's side are wheeled in ease on the rubber tired stretcher wagon which was purchased with the gifts of Miss Margaret Beatty of South River Church. On it also the women patients are brought to the operating room from their beds.

It was the desire of Mrs. James Sprunt that a portion of her generous gift should be considered a memorial of her daughter Marion, so the Operating Section is to be known as the "Marion Sprunt Memorial" if this meets with Mrs. Sprunt's approval. The first person operated on in this new room was a young girl from the Luola Murchison Sprunt Academy, and she was just about the age of Marion Sprunt at the time of her death.

One of the things that has always troubled us in the old building was the problem of mosquitoes and flies, the latter mostly of the green variety. This problem has been settled most satisfactorily in the new building by gauze wire screens over the whole house, including the two wide verandas. It is such marked improvement over the old building that we are hoping the time will soon come when that can be screened too. In the old operating room it used to keep one orderly busy chasing flies, whereas now everything is white and light and large and clean, and the "deadly fly" is a spectator from the outer side.

Among the many improvements that have been made, especially since the arrival of Dr. Crawford, is a small but convenient laboratory with a competent student in charge, the latter being trained in microscopic and other laboratory methods by Dr. Crawford. Not only for all the in-patients is this work done, but while the clinic is going on all sorts of blood and other examinations are made without delay.

During the last eighteen months there have been with us two of our old students, now graduates of the medical department of the University of Nanking, a union missionary college. These young men have been a great help. One of them attracted the attention of some patients of large means living in an out-of-the-way region fifty miles from here and they and their friends set him up in practice in their section, providing instruments, drugs, and a house. The other doctor, to our great distress, was taken violently ill in June and after two days of suffering died in our hospital. We have been unable so far to fill his place. One of the last things he said to his wife, who is an unbeliever, was, "I am now going to heaven, and how is it going to be with you?"

However, God sent us in answer to our prayers a lady doctor, Dr. Tsae Wae Lien, a graduate of the Methodist school at Soochow. She is an active Christian worker, and is taking an earnest in the evangelistic work too. She has direct charge of the Women's hospital and clinic and it is noticeable how much more easily and smoothly our woman's work moves now than formerly. There is a prospect of our securing the services of a male physician, also from the Methodist school at Soochow, but the matter is not yet settled. We feel lost without a competent Chinese doctor in constant charge in the hospital.

Only a few years ago such a thing was unknown to us, now we hardly know how to get along without one. Another great advantage over other days is a graduate head nurse. Miss Albaugh has been looking forward to and preparing for this Woman's hospital for the last four years by securing for Miss Li a very good education as a trained nurse. She was educated in our girl's school at Hangchow, and has had four years in the Nurses Union Training School and in a hospital, graduating this spring just in time to come here to take over the work before Miss Albaugh went away. She is proving herself capable and standing the responsibility well. It was no small disappointment to Miss Albaugh as well as to us that she was unable to stay long enough after the opening of the woman's hospital to get it into full working order, but she needed the furlough to prevent a break-down.

The full work of the woman's hospital will really begin this fall as by that time the really indispensable things will have been provided. Mrs. Worth, as lady superintendent, will add very greatly to the efficiency of the work, besides being a chaperone for Dr. Crawford and myself. Mrs. Pou, the evangelist, born and bred a lady, is a pleasing and eager worker who knows how to approach all kinds and conditions of people. There will be four younger nurses, three women servants, a seamstress, and lastly the old man who minds the gate and keeps the yard in order.

You will be glad, though not surprised, to learn that Dr. Crawford has successfully passed the examinations on the principal part of his language and is planning to take up a good deal more of the medical work this winter. He expects to hold at least one clinic every month in four of our needy out-stations, and maybe on an island in the Yangste river about twenty miles from here, the population of which is about fifty thousand. This is a much needed addition to our medical work, and will be a distinct help to the evanglistic, as he is planning to always have a strong force of evangelists with him. We welcomed him last year as an answer to prayer, and now more than a year of close association has served only to deepen our conviction that he is just the man for the place.

Last fall we launched out upon an effort to increase the income of the hospital by instituting a system of charges for drugs and dressings over and above the entrance fee. In this way the self-support feature of the hospital has been developed distinctly. There has been a falling off in the number of patients, but we think that will be only temporary, and we feel that the move is the right thing. Those who are unable to pay still get their medicines free, but the well-to-do are required to pay a reasonable sum for what they receive. The effort to improve the work, provide better facilities, get a better staff, of course increases our expenses, but we are planning more and more to invite the Chinese of means to take over that burden. If we go about it in the right way, it wil, be a success. It will interest you to know that while the major part of our staff is Presbyterian, our laboratory assistant is a Methodist while the druggest and lady doctor are Episcopalians. We all live together, work together, and pray together, and you would never know the difference for really there is none to be seen.

It would do your hearts good to see the increasing pride that is being taken by the women in their hospital, better at every point than the men's building, and provided for them by Christian women as for their needy sisters.

We beg you not to let your prayers lessen because the end for which you have so long worked and prayed seems to be near at hand, but rather remember that it is more important to pray for this building and work for which you are principally responsible, now even than before it was erected, for now it is something which the Evil one may use as a reproach if not rightly managed and it is also something which God can use greatly to His glory if we throw ourselves into it as we should, and if our hands are ever held up by your faithful prayers.

Ever Yours in His Name,
GEO. C. WORTH.

P. S. Dr. Crawford and I take turns now in keeping the hospital open during the hot weather.

BELHAVEN GETTING READY

To Entertain State Drainage Convention in Royal Style November 30 and December 1.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Belhaven, N. C., Nov. 19.—The eighth anual convention of the North Carolina Drainage Association will meet in Belhaven on November 30 and December 1. Belhaven will entertain the delegates and visitors in royal style. Elaborate preparations are now in progress looking towards this end. Arrangements have already been perfected for an oyster roast and smoker and carrying the delegates to Mattamuskeet Lake, Hyde county, where they will have an opportunity to view the gigantic drainage project—said to be the greatest undertaking of the kind ever attempted in the country.

The convention here promises to be the greatest in the history of the association and Belhaven is going to see to it that the delegates are entertained as never before. Neither expense nor pains is being spared by the citizens.

The trip to the lake will depend upon weather conditions, the delegates will either go by boat or automobile. The trip will be made December 1.

The following committees have been named by the committee on arrangements:

Reception: J. A. Wilkinson, C. W. Mengil, P. H. Johnson, Clifford Harris, F. P. Latham.

Entertainment: George Old, W. O. Montgomery, L. T. Houston, P. H. Johnson.

It makes the use of tape, corn-squeezing bandages, irritating salves, knives, scissors, and razors really look ridiculous. THEATRICAL

Miss "September Morn" now bobs up as a new and brilliant musical comedy and is conceded the greatest of the many fine achievements of the producers, Messrs. Lecomte and Flesher, under whose magnetic banner this unique attraction will be presented at the Academy of Music at an early date. Many names of artists prominent and well known to lovers of musical comedy are to be found in the cast of this big musical comedy company which includes Jo Taylor, Mabel Lafffin, Carl George, Curt Vance, J. J. Patton, James Baber and Walter M. Welfitt. The chorus is composed of the most attractive lot of girls that were ever gathered together in one company.

The production from a scenic and costuming standpoint is beautiful. A big dancing number embracing various styles of the famous tango offers spicy moments of amusement and good wholesome entertainment. Other entirely new dance ensembles are introduced for the first time in this country.

The attraction comes from the LaSalle Opera House, Chicago, where it created a sensation and is among the LaSalle's biggest successes.

Pauline Frederick in "Zaza."

Tomorow the Royal offers what it absolutely guarantees to be the greatest Paramount success that has yet been presented in that theatre, presenting Pauline Frederick, in a superb dramatization of that great stage sensation, "Zaza," filmed in five acts. Instead of writing our own review, we are satisfied to give you the unbiased criticism of The Moving Picture World:

"Pauline Frederick was reported to have said that she put her whole soul into her acting in 'Zaza.' Unquestionably she did. Her portrayal of 'Zaza' even more than did her work in 'The Eternal City' shows the quality of the woman, her all-around emotional power. In 'Zaza' we see revealed the soul of the unconventional female. To Zaza love is supreme—marriage an incident. The idea of a legal union comes to her only when her thoughts are turned in that direction by the approaching marriage of a friend."

"Unlike her famous dramatic predecessors, Zaza's love affairs of the heart are limited to one man; there were no predecessors and there can be no successor. That the one man is married, constitutes the tragedy of the story. Miss Frederick shows us a Zaza who is as intense in her hate, in her desire for revenge, as she is demonstrative in her love; a hate that is stilled in the presence of the man who has deceived her and now scorns her even as it was when confronted by his child. Zaza dominates—in the wakening, in the tenderness of the love passages, playful or serious; in the tearless, but none the less great sorrow in which she sees him go out of her life." Why need we see more? Don't forget—Tomorrow—Royal.

Damon & Pythias Next Saturday

"Damon and Pythias," the most powerful and gripping six-part photoplay the crowds at the Royal. With the Victoria's seating capacity of 1,100 there should be no difficulty in handling the crowds that will clamor to see this great spectacle.

"Damon & Pythias" is the most talked about photoplay of the decade. The story told is of the greatest human friendship that the world has ever known. It tells of the faithful friendship of two Grecian leaders, a bond which could not be severed by intrigue or annihilation. The moral stands as a monument of strength upon which has been built one of the greatest fraternal organizations of the century, the Knights of Pythias.

At the million dollar Universal City this massive production was carefully planned and executed. Whole cities were built. Grecian gardens in all their splendor were constructed; statuary was chiseled, the magnificent baths of the Grecians were duplicated, and then the cast of 1,000 people, headed by Herbert Rawlinson, Anna Little, William Worthington and Cleo Madison was picked. The actual staging of the production was a tremendous undertaking—whole cities were destroyed by fire—whole armies clashed; there was sensational chariot races, and many other colossal scenes. The result is, at a cost of $100,000 the most brilliant and effective spectacular dramatic offering ever made.

German War Pictures—Grand.

Of course the regular big bill of movies is on at the Grand tomorrow and during the week. But that's a secondary matter in view of the presentation for five days, beginning tomorrow, of the famous "German War Pictures," coming direct from a long run at the Strand, New York's largest and handsomest picture theatre, the manager of which says "They are the greatest pictures I have ever seen."

The German War Pictures are strictly neutral, from an American viewpoint. They simply present a side of the titanic conflict which heretofore has not been seen on the screen. No matter which side you are on; you should want to know something of the other side.

The German War Pictures are realistic, true, but robbed as far as possible of war's gruesome mangled bodies. They are extremely varied. Land forces, air forces, sea forces, undersea forces, and the forces (Red Cross) which collect the human ruins of it all, are vividly and perfectly shown. They furnish a fitting sequel to "Guarding Old Glory" presented at the Royal last week, and interesting comparisons can be made after viewing this great series at the Grand for the next five days.

Hobart Henley at the Bijou.

Handsome Hobart Henley, star of many successes, presents one of his very greatest productions at the Bijou tomorrow, "The Measure of Leon DuBray," a three-reel prize heart interest drama. "The Measure of Leon DuBray" is a story of the Northland, of the pine forests, and its characters are those familiar to every hunter who leaves the city behind at the end of the hot summer to have some fall shooting in the wilds.

Hobart Henley has those wonderful assets, youth and manliness, and the ability to hold any audience in any picture he appears in. He plays a dashing role as the lead in this stirring three-reel feature, with which Luella Maxim playing the role of Janet Besson, a pretty daughter of the wilds—a beautiful type of French-Canadian girl, with whom Henley falls in love, you may expect one of the sweetest, prettiest and most spectacularly enthralling dramas you have seen in a long time.

"Father's First Murder," is a screaming L-Ko in which Harry Gribbon, Gene Rogers and some other L-Koites do some of their funniest stunts that is also on the bill for Monday.

Return of "Neptune's Daughter"

Several thousand Wilmingtonians who could not jam themselves into the Royal when Annette Kellerman was presented in "Neptune's Daughter" at that theatre several weeks ago, will be delighted to read the announcement of the management that a return date has been secured on this greatest of all film spectacles, and that it will be presented at the Victoria theatre, on Thanksgiving Day—next Thursday at the regular Royal price and schedule of performances.

The Victoria has a seating capacity of 1,100, which should be ample for the crowds that want to see this amazing spectacle—many who didn't see it before and have heard their friends talking about it, and many others who will want to embrace the opportunity of witnessing this greatest of all screen triumphs again.

"Neptune's Daughter" has invariably played return dates in every theatre in which it has ever been presented, and in most cases to even larger crowds than on the first presentation. Hence those who want to witness it next Thursday may expect to again encounter crowded houses unless they attend in the early afternoon or evening.

EDIBLE SNAILS

To most Americans the idea of using snails in the diet will not awaken gastronomic enthusiasm; but there are people in various parts of the world to whom the suggestion of the use of other mollusks, such as oysters and clams, would be repugnant. It is not necessary to go back to the days of the elder Pliny for evidence that edible snails have had a place on the menus of many countries. It is stated that during our own oyster season, from September to April, more than 200 million snails are disposed of in Paris alone. The daily consumption of "escargots" in the French capital has been estimated at 50 tons when trade is at its best. In the belief that the American people can be educated to see the true worth of the edible snail, which might be grown with profit in the United States, a government expert has collected some facts bearing on their use. The European war has added a further interest to the possibility of snail culture. Comparatively few Americans have ever tasted snails, know of their preparation as food, or even consider them a fit article of diet. Among the foreigners in our population, snails have a limited sale. Those sold in the fish markets of our larger cities have practically all been imported from France. Abroad, snails are by no means regarded in any sense as a national dish. They are included in the dietary much as is the oyster in this country, as a table luxury or delicacy. In respect to composition, the two groups of mollusks furnish about the same yield of nutrients. In Europe, snails are raised commercially under an intensive system of culture in many places, in snaileries. Rust believes that although snail culture may not be very profitable in Europe, where economic conditions are different, in that the food for the animals must be grown and supplied to them regularly and everything done with much labor on restricted areas of land, in the United States snail farming might, with judicious publicity, and in time, become profitable. Whether or not it is advantageous, from the standpoint of nutrition, to attempt to introduce a new food to the American table is a question of individual preference. Almost every one, Rust writes, who has ever eaten well prepared snails, admits their gastronomic worth, and there are many states where they could be grown and kept fresh until used, and where they would prove a very welcome addition to the somewhat limited menu of the locality. In the Mississippi Valley, for instance, where conditions for their cultivation are almost ideal, they could be grown at practically no cost (either in money, time or labor) and might be used to a great extent in place of oysters, which they greatly resemble in flavor when properly prepared. Such a practice would be advantageous, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, for the snail is possibly preferable as an article of human consumption. It is cleaner, feeding daintily, as it does, only on the cleanest of vegetable tissues, while oysters, not being able to move about in search of food, must take what comes to them in the water, are sometimes fattened in water impregnated with bacteria-laden sewage, and thus, occasionally, act as carriers of typhoid and other diseases. At any rate, we can be prepared to receive the suggestion of the addition of snails to the American menu without the revulsion of feeling which it awakens in many at present.

MARKETS

WEEKLY COTTON GOODS

Market Firmer and Advances Have Been Made in Some Instances.

New York, Nov. 20.—Cotton goods markets have ruled firmer and in some instances advances have been made, without any assistance in the way of stimulation from a higher cotton market. This condition has been the result of a broadening demand for merchandise which merchants now say is well defined and likely to go on at the consuming end for some time. Mills are ver ywell employed, save in those cases where color shortage or labor troubles have led to curtailment. Export markets that have consumed large quantities of cotton goods in the past, particularly those in the far and near east are dull, but there has been a good miscellaneous demand from other markets. Restriction of cotton goods imports continues a feature. During the past week prints, wide sheetings, some constructions of printcloths and flannettes for the manufacturing trades were advanced. Fine and fancy cotton goods are very steady wit hthe demand from retailers for advance deliveries showing an increase. Cotton garment manufacturers are busier than they have been in some years and knit goods industries are active. Prices on cotton goods rule as follows: Printcloths, 28 inch 64 by 64s, 3 5-8c, nominal, 64 by 60s, 3 3-8c, 38 1-2 inch 64 by 64s, 41-2c to 4 5-8c, brown sheetings, Southern standards, 7 12 to 73-4c, denims, 9 ounce 14 1-2c, tickings 8 ounce 12 1-2c, standard prints, 5 1-2c, staple ginghams 6 3-4c, dress ginghams 8 1-2c nominal.

FINDS A CURE FOR PELLAGRA

Harvey, La.—Mrs. S. W. Spruiell, of this place, writes: "I suppose it will be a great pleasure to you to know that you cured my child. She had pellagra very bad and the doctor said she never would get well. She is well of pellagra and looks fine.

"You may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish. Great benefit have you done my daughter, Mindie Abrams."

There is no longer any doubt that pellagra can be cured. Don't delay until it is too late. It is your duty to consult the resourceful Baughn.

The symptoms—hands red like sunburn, skin peeling off, sore mouth, the lips, throat and tongue a flaming red, with much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea, either diarrhoea or constipation.

There is hope; get Baughn's big Free book on Pellagra and learn about the remedy for Pellagra that has at last been found. Address American Compounding Co., Box 2097, Jasper, Ala., remembering money is refunded in any case where the remedy fails to cure.—Adv.

AN APOLOGY

The management of the Grand Theatre feels that their patrons are due an apology, or, more correctly speaking, an explanation, relative to Charlie Chaplin's failure to fill his engagement there yesterday.

We were assured that this picture would be shipped from Roanoke, Va., Thursday night, and it should have arrived in Wilmington, at the latest, yesterday morning. However, for some reason, it did not arrive.

When next we advertise a Chaplin Feature, our patrons may rest assured that it is already here, and that they will not be disappointed again.

COTTON PRICES ADVANCED

Close Was Steady at Net Gain of 3 to 5 Points, With Both January and Spot Quotations at 11.75.

New York, Nov. 20.—The cotton market was very quiet today and prices fluctuated within a range of six or seven points, closing steady at a net advance of 3 to 5 points. January sold from 11.71 to 11.76 and closed at 11.75.

The market opened steady 1 to 3 points higher in response to relatively steady cables and reports that the Liverpool rally from an opening decline had resulted from spinners' calling. There was very little demand, however, and prices eased off during the middle of the morning with March selling down to 11.97 and May to 12.12 under scattered realizing and a little Southern hedge selling. Rallies followed on covering for over the week-end and the ginning report, with March selling up to 12.04 and May to 12.17 in the late trading. Scattering accounts appeared pretty well evened up and there was little disposition to increase commitments until the census figures were out of the way. Considerable attention was attracted by the publication of a Washington despatch claiming that the advance of the earlier season had been partly due to competitive buying by the British and German governments who were said to have purchased in the neighborhood of 1,250,000 bales. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at th close of the week showed a further falling off with consequent prospects that exports for the coming week would compare unfavorably with last year's and the bullish features discussed around the ring failed to create any immediate buying power of consequence.

The market closed steady.

WAR STOCKS WERE WEAK

Some Losses Recovered Before Close, Oil Stocks Being Strong—Texas Company Rose 10 Points.

New York, Nov. 20.—Weakness in war stocks and kindred specialties, which later spread to some of the more stable issues, characterized the light dealings of today's short session. Some losses were largely relieved before the close while oil stocks were strong with a gain of over 10 points for the Texas company at 203.

At their extreme declines Bethlehem Steel, Studebaker, Willys-Overland and Baldwin Locomotive were from 4 to 10 points under yesterday's close. Coppers also were backward. United States Steel reflected pressure and rails in the investment division were a point or more down. Short covering rectified this condition in part toward the end, but the close was irregular. The day's news included reports from mercantile agencies which fully confirmed earlier advices of general trade expansion and a wider distribution of most classes of merchandise, this condition being logically accompanied by greater activity in many lines of industry, particularly textiles. Betterment also is reported in bank collections with increased demand for money.

Indications point to another advance in most finished steel products, and it is predicted that high-grade copper will cross twenty cents during the coming week.

Several Standard Oil subsidiaries announced a further rise in prices of oils. Stock of that calibre have been the feature of the week on the curb.

Instead of the large gain in cash which local banks were expected to show on the week's business, a nominal decrease was reported with virtually no change in actual reserves.

Bonds were firmly firm during the week, showing more or less independence of the movement in stocks.

TRADE OUTLOOK IS BETTER

South, Prostrate Year Ago, Has Regained Its Footing and Courage —Influence of War Orders.

The monthly circular issued by the Murchison National Bank, of this city, in connection with its New York correspondent, The National City Bank, takes an optimistic view of the business situation as it developed during October.

The outstanding feature, it says, has been the fact that all trade has been unmistably better. "We expressed the opinion two months ago that as the season for fall trade came on," it goes on to say, "the country would swing into a broad, general state of activity, and that expectation has been realized. Every part of the country now sends good reports, and the contrast they make with the conditions of a year ago is calculated to inspire the most profound sentiments of relief, satisfaction and gratitude.

"The South, which a year ago was prostrate, with cotton selling at seven cents per pound or less, has regained its footing and its courage. Although this year's cotton crop is smaller by possibly more than twenty-five per cent., the total value will be higher than last year's, and it has been raised at a considerably lower cost. Furthermore, the South has grown more of other crops, particularly corn and wheat, than ever before, and has reached the stage of giving thanks for the lessons of adversity. With the rise of cotton to twelve cents per pound, a different atmosphere pervades the South, and it is again an active factor in the trade of the country.

"The grain farmers are not faring quite so well as last year, for prices are lower, but the yields are so large that they have little cause for complaint. The one serious disappointment in agriculture this year has been in the failure of a considerable portion of the corn crop in the northern part of the belt to reach maturity, but the hay and forage crops are so abundant that the loss will be borne with comparative ease. This is the advantage of having the corn crop cut down by a wet season instead of by a drought which curtails all plant growth. The fruit and root crops are generally good. The wet season drenched even the plains states, so that the "dry" farmers have had a prosperous season, with unheard of yields of wheat, as well as abundant crops of sugar beets and the grasses. The prospect for a continuance of the duty on sugar increases the cheerfulness of the West. The wool growers have sold this year's clip at record prices, and the live stock interests are exceptionally prosperous. Farm seekers from other states are pouring into the states of the northwest where a limited amount of comparatively cheap land is still to be had.

"The metal mining industry of the West, which was badly crippled a year ago, is now in full swing. There is enormous activity in the production of copper, lead and zinc; it is now up to capacity of the mines and smelters, and in the case of zinc the smelter capacity is being materially increased. So far as agriculture, stock raising and mining go the West is exceedingly prosperous.

"The iron and steel industry has expanded steadily and rapidly in the past six months until the production of basic materials is now surpassing all records, although some lines of finished goods are not in normal demand. There is a broad general improvement, the point has been reached where the fear of not being able to get deliveries is stimulating purchases, and prices are advancing in many lines to the best figure realized in recent years. The earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the third quarter of 1915 were the largest for any quarter in several years. New capital has begun to go into the steel industry, some of the important companies are undergoing reorganization, and capacity is being considerably increased.

"Current railway earnings and bank clearings are now comparing with the subnormal figures of a year ago, and show heavy gains, for traffic and trade a year ago were about as poor as could be. Allowance must be made for extraordinary activity in certain lines, notably automobiles and war materials, but the general merchandise movement is much freer, and more confidence is manifested in commercial and industrial circles than at any time since the outbreak of the war. The figures for idle cars have taken a sudden drop, and complaints of car shortage, congestion of traffic and of labor shortabe are becoming frequent. Business is not booming in all lines. Large construction work is still below what it should be in normal times in this growing country, but the amount of building of the smaller class makes a good showing. The available supply of labor is so fully employed that the situation is on the verge of being critical. Food supplies promise to be abundant and moderate in price for the coming year, and the outlook for general comfort and prosperity in the United States is at present very promising.

"The disquieting factor in this otherwise encouraging situation is the large volume of business which directly or indirectly is due to the war, and liable to come to an end at any time, the sooner the better. The situation cannot be regarded as squared for permanent prosperity while this is the case. Foreign trade development in new quarters is relatively small, and there are no large new undertakings in sight at home. It is not yet clear how the switch can be made from the present abnormal activities to other activities without the confusion, unemployment and unsettlement of values that usually accompanies such a movement."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

Market Became Quiet and Steady and Prices Made Small Gain.

New Orleans, Nov. 20.—The cotton market ruled quiet and steady today, prices standing at a small net advance. At their highest trading months were 6 to 7 points up. The close was at a gain of 3 to 5 points. Better cables than due caused the market to open at an advance and expectations of a bullish ginning report from the Census Bureau Monday sustained it.

Weather conditions over the belt were considered ideal but no great selling resulted because of telegrams saying that the effects of the recent frosts were becoming apparent.

Quoting of spots at yesterday's prices was another feature which held trading within small limits. The tendency was to even up.

The market closed steady. Closing bids:

December 11.45; January 11.64; March 11.92; May 12.10; July 12.21.

Spot steady, unchanged. Sales on the spot 240 bales, to arrive none. Middling 11.38.

EMPEROR VISITS THE GRAND ANCESTRAL SHRINES AT ISE

Japan's New Ruler Pays Homage Before Shrines of Uji and Yamada.

Uyijyamada (Ise), Japan, Nov. 20.—Emperor Yoshihito arrived here today from Kioto to pay homage before the grand ancestral shrines at Uji and Yamada. Accompanied by the court he left Kioto on a special train and arriving at Yamada entered the improvised imperial lodge.

The grand ancestral shrines at Ise consist of the "Inner" shrine and the "Outer" shrine at the town of Yamada. The former, or inner shrine, is dedicated to the great imperial ancestress Amaterasu Omikami and the latter to Toyouke-no-okami, a deity of rice and cereal. In olden days access to those ancestral shrines was strictly forbidden to all persons, however high in rank they might be, except the emperor himself. Even the heir apparent to the throne could not pass the portals of the sacred buildings. The ordinary worshipper may proceed to the main gate, but no further.

The majority of artisans in Tokio and still more in Osaka and Kioto, which are nearer Ise, believe that they may find difficulty in gaining a livelihood unless they invoke the protection of the tutelary goddess at Ise by performing pilgrimage at least once in their life and the peasants of Japan are even more devout believers in this tradition. From this motive many people take care to save money with a view to providing them with traveling expenses in making their pilgrimages to Ise temples before they close their worldly existence. Those who cannot pay a visit to the shrines once in their life are declared to be most unfortunate beings.

The emperor and court will return to Kioto tomorrow.

SPEAKS FOR PREPAREDNESS.

Says Spanish-American War Found the United States Unprepared.

Niles, O., Nov. 20.—In paying tribute to the memory of William McKinley at the laying of the corner stone of the McKinley Birthplace Memorial here today, Congressman L. C. Dyer, of St. Louis, commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, told of the unpreparedness of the United States for the war with Spain, and declared himself pledged to the support of the movement for increasing the army and navy. He declared that the United States at the present time was, of all the countries in the world, virtually the least able to defend itself and its possessions.

Thousands of persons who served in the Spanish-American war lost their lives, and many who are living today are physically disabled by disease contracted in that service, because, he said, the country was so unprepared for war that President McKinley had to call for volunteers who rushed into the field without any training or preparation for the hardships that a soldier has to encounter.

NEGROES FORCE WHITE WOMAN TO DELIVER CASH IN STORE.

Bold Robbery Perpetrated at Goldsboro. Criminals Escape.

Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 19.—At the point of a pistol forcing Mrs. Moore to deliver to them the contents of the money drawer, two negroes who had entered the store of Clayton Moore, in the northern part of the city, late yesterday in the absence of the proprietor, secured several checks and $20 in money and made a get-away, after one of them had undertaken to force the door to an ante-room in the building into which Mrs. Moore went after delivering the money. Her cries through a window on the outside of the room attracted attention and frightened the blacks away. They escaped. Mrs. Moore says, however, that she can identify them if she sees them again, though she does not know who they are. Their description has been sent to officers in all neighboring towns.

LIBERTY BELL THREATENED BY BIG FIRE NEAR TRAIN

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 20.—Safety of the Liberty Bell was threatened here late today when fire swept through two large warehouses within less than a thousand feet of the spot where the train bearing the reli cwas sidetracked. For a time the blaze threatened to reach a 600,000 gallon oil tank directly across the street. A high wind that fanned the flames in the opposite direction, however, prevented an explosion. Thousands of persons were crowding to view the bell. An engine hurriedly was procured and the train dragged to safety.

SECOND LAP COMPLETED.

Army Aviators Safely Make Flight to Fort Worth, Texas.

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 20. — After fighting a strong gale for the entire distance of 114 miles from Wichita Falls, the six aeroplanes comprising the first aero squadron of the United States army, commanded by Captain B. D. Foulois, landed safely in Fort Worth today. The trip, which was made in exactly two hours, completes the second lap of the flight the squadron is making from Fort Sill, Okla., to its permanent station at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. The aviators will remain in Fort Worth until Monday morning.

STEAMER ANCONA WAS SUNK BY AN AUSTRIAN SUBMARINE

Italian Government Not Contending It Was German U-Boat.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The Italian foreign office has notified American Ambassador Page at Rome that it has no reason to believe that the submarine which sunk the liner Ancona was other than an Austrian. This with the Austrian government's acknowledgment of the act clears up the last possibility that it might have been a German boat. The Italian government also informed Ambassador Page that it has made no contention that the submarine was German.

5,000 SEE HILLSTROM'S BODY.

Governor Spry Being Commended for His Action in the Case.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 20.—The body of Joseph Hillstrom, executed yesterday for the murder of J. G. Morrison and his son lay under a red flag placed on the casket by members of the Industrial Workers of the World today, and was viewed by more than 5,000 persons. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon.

The character of Governor Spry's correspondence on the Hilstrom case changed today. Instead of threatening letters he received almost 200 commendatory letters and telegrams.

CAROLINA GROWING OPTIMISTIC.

Hopeful and Determined as to Thanksgiving Game.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 20.—The spirit of the campus is, as it has been since the Davidson game, one of renewed hope and determination. Many of Carolina supporters are made more optimistic by remembering that when the Tar Heels last beat Virginia, in 1905 by the score of 17 to 0, the conditions then were the same as they are this year. The team started the season off poorly and many of the players were out of the game on account of injuries. Carolina's first game resulted in a 6 to 0 victory over Davidson. Then she last to Penn, the Navy and V. P. I. in succession. At this point a change for the better came and Carolina won from Georgetown and V. M. I. and tied A. & M. The next game was with Virginia, and Carolina hit the Orange and Blue and her stride at the same time. Working like a traction engine she defeated Virginia 17 to 0.

Carolina's 1915 season as far as it has progressed, is very much like the 1905 one. Starting off obviously far below form, the Blue and White team won the first two easy games with difficulty and then maintained a constantly losing streak until the Clemson game, some three weeks ago. Since then it has improved rapidly and steadily. According to 1905, the 1915 omens appear favorable.

FOUR AMERICANS KILLED.

Mayo Indians and Villa Troops Play Havoc in a Raid.

Topolobampo, Sinaloa, via radio to San Francisco, Nov. 20. — Four Americans and one Englishman were killed, the supply stores of the United Sugar Company looted, irrigation pumps stopped and between 500 and 1,000 horses and mules belonging to the sugar company driven off, according to advices from Los Mochias, 18 miles inland, which last Tuesday was raided by Mayo indians and Villa troops. One hundred and ten refugees who sought safety here, still are aboard the United States gunboat Annapolis.

Washington, Nov. 20. — Efforts are being made by Canadian capital, it was learned here today, to secure from the Nicaraguan government permission to build a railroad across Nicaragua from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Says the Savannah News: "Savannah wants tourists and conventions, because her people realize now that they pay. They bring money to Savannah and leave it here and they give Savannah the sort of publicity every progressive city desires." Those are good reasons. Tourists and conventions give live people a fine opportunity to show the hospitality, the progress, the possibilities and the opportunities in their city. Seeing is believing.

Come up and join the happy bowlers. They are bowling every afternoon and night at Warren's. (advertisement.)
